Hotspot Question

To complete the sentence, select the appropriate option in the answer area.

Answer Area

A key/value data store is optimized for

	▼
enforcing constraints
simple lookups table joins transactions

Answer:

Explanation:

□ Explanation:

Box 1: simple lookups

A key/value store associates each data value with a unique key. Most key/value stores only support simple query, insert, and delete operations. To modify a value (either partially or completely), an application must overwrite the existing data for the entire value. In most implementations, reading or writing a single value is an atomic operation.

An application can store arbitrary data as a set of values. Any schema information must be provided by the application. The key/value store simply retrieves or stores the value by key.

NEW QUESTION # 258

What is the primary purpose of a data warehouse?

- A. to provide read-only storage of relational and non-relational historical data
- B. to provide storage for transactional line-of-business (LOB) applications
- C. to provide transformation services between source and target data stores
- D. to provide answers to complex queries that rely on data from multiple sources

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

Consider using a data warehouse when you need to keep historical data separate from the source transaction systems for performance reasons. Data warehouses make it easy to access historical data from multiple locations, by providing a centralized location using common formats, keys, and data models.

Query both relational and nonrelational data.
