NEW QUESTION # 149

Land take can have knock-on effects, e.g., supply chains may build up in the location, which creates more employment opportunities, which brings more people to the area, which can then lead to housing and schools being built.

- A. TRUE
- B. FALSE

NEW QUESTION # 150

Key industries that produce noise pollution... select all that apply.

- A. Air transport
- B. Road transport
- C. Construction
- D. All the above

Answer: D

Explanation:

Noise pollution stems from multiple industries, all relevant to supply chains:

* Construction: Heavy machinery (e.g., pile drivers) generates high-decibel noise, affecting sites and surroundings.

* Road Transport: Trucks, especially in urban logistics, produce traffic noise (e.g., engine roar, horns).

* Air Transport: Aircraft takeoffs/landings near airports create significant sound pollution.

The CIPS L3M6 module identifies these as major contributors, linking them to procurement decisions (e.g., choosing quieter vehicles) and site planning to minimize environmental impact, a core LO2 concern. All options apply, reflecting the broad scope of noise sources.
