Archer Certified Administrator-Expert Sample Questions (Q70-Q75):

NEW QUESTION # 70

Failed user login, Access Role Created and Deleted, and password change by user events are viewed in:

- A. Locked Accounts Report
- B. Access Control Rights by Role Report
- C. Security Events Report

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Security Events Report is the primary auditing tool for tracking administrative and sensitive user actions within the Archer platform. According to the Archer Administration II curriculum, this report captures a broad spectrum of "event-based" security data that standard access reports do not cover.

Specifically, it logs every failed login attempt , which is critical for identifying potential brute-force attacks.

It also tracks metadata changes to the security infrastructure, such as when an Access Role is created or deleted , providing an audit trail of who modified the system's permissions. Furthermore, it records password changes initiated by users. While the "Locked Accounts Report" (Option B) only shows users currently barred from the system, the Security Events Report provides the historical context of why those events occurred. It is an essential resource for compliance officers and system auditors to ensure that the integrity of the Archer environment's security configuration remains intact.

NEW QUESTION # 71

Which Advanced Workflow node allows you to transition to different paths based on a specified rule?

- A. Wait for Content Update node
- B. Evaluate Content node
- C. User Action node
- D. Update Content node

Answer: B

Explanation:

In Advanced Workflow (AWF) , logic-based branching is handled by the Evaluate Content node. As taught in the Advanced Workflow Beyond the Basics course, this node acts as a "decision engine" within the workflow. An administrator configures one or more rules within the node that evaluate the fields of the record currently in the workflow.

Based on whether these rules evaluate to true or false, the record is routed down different paths (outbound transitions). For example, an Evaluate Content node might check the "Risk Rating" of a record; if the rating is "High," it transitions to an Executive Approval node; if it is "Low," it transitions directly to the Archive node.

This is distinct from a User Action node (Option D), where the path is chosen manually by a person, or an Update Content node (Option B), which simply changes a field value without necessarily redirecting the workflow path.

NEW QUESTION # 72

What does the Archer Job Monitor front-end report display?

- A. User access logs
- B. A list of all jobs and their run history
- C. Security alerts
- D. System performance metrics

Answer: B

Explanation:

The Archer Job Monitor is a dedicated administrative interface found within the "Administration" workspace. It is the primary dashboard for monitoring the health of the Archer Job Engine . According to the curriculum, the Job Monitor provides visibility into both scheduled and ad-hoc background tasks, including Data Feeds, Data Publication, Notifications, and Recalculations.

The report displays a chronological list of jobs, their current status (Queued, In Progress, Completed, or Failed), and their start/end times. This is the first place an administrator looks if a notification wasn't sent or a data feed didn't update. Unlike "User access logs" (which track logins) or "System performance metrics" (which are found in the ACP or IIS), the Job Monitor is focused strictly on the execution history of background system tasks, allowing administrators to identify bottlenecks or specific job failures without needing access to the server's event logs.

NEW QUESTION # 73

When Sarah gets to work, she logs into her Windows computer using her username and password. As part of her daily routine, she needs to view some reports inside Archer. How does Sarah access Archer reports without typing her login details again?

- A. By manually entering her credentials
- B. Through Windows Integrated SSO
- C. By using a password manager
- D. With biometric authentication

Answer: B

Explanation:

The scenario described is a classic implementation of Windows Integrated Authentication (WIA) , a form of Single Sign-On (SSO). As detailed in the Archer Installation and Troubleshooting guides, when Archer is configured for Windows Integrated SSO, it leverages the Kerberos or NTLM protocol. Since Sarah has already authenticated to the Windows Domain at the start of her shift, her browser passes her "security token" directly to the Archer web server (IIS).

The Archer Control Panel (ACP) must be configured to recognize the domain, and the user's Archer account must have their Windows account name (e.g., DOMAIN\Username) populated in the "Domain Account" field. This creates a seamless "handshake" that bypasses the Archer login screen entirely. Unlike a password manager (Option C), which still technically "types" the details, or biometrics (Option B), which requires a new physical scan, Windows Integrated SSO provides a passive experience where the existing OS-level authentication is trusted by the application, drastically improving user workflow and productivity.

NEW QUESTION # 74

In multi-host Archer installation, same Archer configuration certificate should be used in:

- A. Web and DC servers
- B. Web, SQL, Services servers
- C. Web and Services servers
- D. Web and SQL servers

Answer: C

Explanation:

In a distributed Archer environment, the Archer Configuration Certificate is used to encrypt and secure communication between the Archer Control Panel (ACP) and the various server nodes. As taught in Archer Administration II , this certificate ensures that only authorized servers can join the instance and access the encrypted configuration files (like settings.config).

The certificate must be installed on all Web and Services servers. The Web server requires it to process user requests and communicate with the ACP, while the Services server (which handles the Job Engine, Indexing, and Workflow) requires it to decrypt the task instructions it receives. The SQL Server (Option B and C) does not require the Archer Configuration Certificate because it interacts with Archer via standard SQL authentication or Windows Authentication protocols at the database layer; it does not run the Archer Configuration Service. "DC servers" (Domain Controllers) are also outside the scope of this certificate requirement.
