NEW QUESTION # 140
Which activity can companies complete by using AWS Organizations?

- A. Manage service control policies (SCPs).
- B. Migrate applications to microservices.
- C. Monitor the performance of applications.
- D. Troubleshoot the performance of applications.

Answer: A

Explanation:
Managing service control policies (SCPs) is an activity that companies can complete by using AWS Organizations. AWS Organizations is a service that enables the user to consolidate multiple AWS accounts into an organization that can be managed as a single unit. AWS Organizations allows the user to create groups of accounts and apply policies to them, such as service control policies (SCPs) that specify the services and actions that users and roles can access in the accounts. AWS Organizations also enables the user to use consolidated billing, which combines the usage and charges from all the accounts in the organization into a single bill3.
