ISQI ISTQB Certified Tester - Foundation Level Extension - Agile Tester Sample Questions (Q52-Q57):

NEW QUESTION # 52

Which of the following is NOT a statement of value from the Agile Manifesto?

- A. Working software over comprehensive documentation
- B. Processes and tools over individuals and interactions.
- C. Responding to change over following a plan.
- D. Customer collaboration over contract negotiation.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

The Agile Manifesto is a declaration of four values and twelve principles that guide the Agile software development approach¹². The four values of the Agile Manifesto are¹²:

Individuals and interactions over processes and tools

Working software over comprehensive documentation

Customer collaboration over contract negotiation

Responding to change over following a plan

These values emphasize the importance of human collaboration, working product, customer feedback, and adaptability over rigid processes, extensive documentation, fixed contracts, and predefined plans. The values do not imply that the items on the right are not important, but rather that the items on the left are more important and should be prioritized.

Therefore, the statement that is NOT a value from the Agile Manifesto is B, as it contradicts the first value of the Agile Manifesto.

The correct statement should be "Individuals and interactions over processes and tools". References: ISTQB Foundation Level Agile Tester Extension Syllabus¹, page 10; ISTQB Agile Tester Sample Exam², question 1.

NEW QUESTION # 53

Consider an online application that allows registered users to pay the annual car tax based on the vehicle's engine power in kW.

Given the following user story:

"As a customer I need the online application to calculate the annual car tax amount that I need to pay for my car:

* If the power of the vehicle is less than 20 kW, then the annual car tax is free

* If the power of the vehicle is more or equal than 20 kW but less or equal than 150 kW, then the annual car tax is 250 Euros

* If the power of the vehicle is more than 150 kW, then the annual car tax is 750 Euros" What is the MOST suitable use of a black-box test design technique for this user story?

- A. Equivalence partitioning. Test the annual car tax value for the following partitions:
[power of the vehicle < 20 kW ; 20 kW power of the vehicles 150 kW; power of the vehicle > 150 kW]
- B. Use case testing Test the following use case (Actor=registered user):Pre-condition=registered user logged in Scenario=registered user inserts the power of the vehicle, making payment and logs out Post-condition=car tax paid and registered user logged out
- C. Decision table testing. Test the following conditions:
Conditions=registered user logged in; inserted power of the vehicle=20kW; Action=Car tax paid
- D. State transition testing. Test the transitions between the following states:
logging in, inserting the power of the vehicle, making payment, logging out.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

Equivalence partitioning is a black-box test design technique that divides the input domain of a system into classes of data from which test cases can be derived. The idea is that if a system works correctly for a representative value from an equivalence class, it will work correctly for all values from that class, and vice versa. Equivalence partitioning reduces the number of test cases by eliminating redundant ones. For the given user story, equivalence partitioning is the most suitable technique because it can test the different outcomes of the annual car tax calculation based on the power of the vehicle, which is the main input for the system. By testing one value from each partition, the tester can verify the functionality of the system and detect any errors in the calculation logic. The other techniques are not as suitable because they do not focus on the input domain of the system, but rather on the conditions, transitions, or scenarios that are not directly related to the user story. NEW QUESTION # 54

Which agile development approach incorporates the following practices:

- * a project is divided into iterations called sprints
- * each sprint results in a potentially releasable/shippable product?

- A. Continuous Integration
- B. Scrum
- C. Kanban
- D. Extreme Programming

Answer: B

Explanation:

Scrum is an agile development approach that incorporates the following practices:

- * a project is divided into iterations called sprints, which are typically 2-4 weeks long
- * each sprint starts with a planning meeting, where the team selects a subset of user stories from the product backlog to work on
- * each sprint ends with a review meeting, where the team demonstrates the potentially releasable /shippable product increment to the stakeholders and collects feedback
- * each sprint also includes a retrospective meeting, where the team reflects on the process and identifies areas for improvement

NEW QUESTION # 55

Which of the following statements best describes test-driven development?

- A. A way of developing software where the test cases are developed, and often automated, before the software to run those test cases has been written
- B. An approach to software development based on iterative incremental development, where requirements and solutions evolve through collaboration between self-organizing cross-functional teams
- C. A high-level description of the test levels to be performed and the testing within those levels for an organization or programme (one or more projects)
- D. A way of testing software where test design and test execution occur at the same time, guided by a test charter during time-boxed testing sessions

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

From CTFL-AT Syllabus v4.0, Section 3.2 Test-Driven Development, it states:

"Test-Driven Development (TDD) is a practice where test cases are written before the code is developed.

Typically, these tests are automated, and the code is written to make the tests pass." This directly matches Option A, making it the correct and complete answer.

Let's review the other options:

- * Option B describes a test strategy, not TDD.
- * Option C is a definition of Agile software development, not TDD.
- * Option D describes exploratory testing, not TDD.
