APICS Certified in Planning and Inventory Management (CPIM 8.0) Sample Questions (Q290-Q295):

NEW QUESTION # 290

Reducing distribution network inventory days of supply will have which of the following Impacts?

- A. Decrease turnovers and increase cash-to-cash cycle time.
- B. Decrease turnovers and reduce cash-to-cash cycle time.
- C. Increase turnovers and reduce cash-to-cash cycle time.
- D. Increase turnovers and increase cash-to-cash cycle time.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Inventory days of supply (IDS) is a measure of how long it takes for a company to sell its entire inventory. Reducing IDS means that the company is selling its inventory faster, which increases the inventory turnover ratio. Inventory turnover ratio is the number of times a company sells and replaces its inventory in a given period. A higher inventory turnover ratio indicates that the company is more efficient in managing its inventory and generating sales. Reducing IDS also means that the company is reducing the time between paying its suppliers and receiving payment from its customers, which reduces the cash-to-cash cycle time. Cash-to-cash cycle time is the number of days a company's cash is tied up in its operations. A lower cash-to-cash cycle time indicates that the company is more efficient in converting its inventory into cash and improving its liquidity. Therefore, reducing distribution network inventory days of supply will have the impact of increasing turnovers and reducing cash-to-cash cycle time. Reference:

NEW QUESTION # 291

An organization has network services in a data center that are provisioned only for internal use, and staff at offices and staff working from home both use the services to store sensitive customer data. The organization does not want the Internet Protocol (IP) address of the service to receive traffic from users not related to the organization. Which technology is MOST useful to the organization in protecting this network?

- A. Domain Name System (DNS)
- B. Network Address Translation (NAT)
- C. Virtual Private Network (VPN)
- D. Intrusion Detection System (IDS)

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 292

Global outsourcing and shared suppliers serving an industry are drivers of which category of risk?

- A. Loss of intellectual property
- B. Procurement problems
- C. Supply disruptions
- D. Forecast inaccuracy

Answer: A

Explanation:

Global outsourcing and shared suppliers serving an industry are drivers of loss of intellectual property risk, which is the risk of losing proprietary information or technology to competitors or other parties. This risk can arise from inadequate protection of data, contracts, patents, or trade secrets, or from intentional or unintentional disclosure by suppliers or employees. Loss of intellectual property can result in reduced competitive advantage, lower market share, or legal disputes. Reference := CPIM Part 2 Exam Content Manual, Version 8.0, ASCM, 2021, p. 11. #### NEW QUESTION # 293

Which of the following regarding authentication protocols is a PRIMARY consideration when designing an authentication and key management system?

- A. Integrity
- B. Authorization
- C. Refresh
- D. Visibility

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 294

One advantage of adopting a supply network perspective is that it:

- A. enhances understanding of competitive and cooperative forces.
- B. defines the market relationships and partnerships.
- C. encourages rivals to collaborate.
- D. protects global markets.

Answer: A

Explanation:

One advantage of adopting a supply network perspective is that it enhances understanding of competitive and cooperative forces. A supply network perspective is a holistic view of the supply chain that considers the interdependencies and interactions among the various entities involved in the flow of materials, information, and money. A supply network perspective helps to identify the sources of value creation and capture, the opportunities and threats in the market, and the potential synergies and conflicts among the supply chain partners. A supply network perspective also helps to design and implement effective strategies and tactics to achieve competitive advantage and customer satisfaction. The other statements are not advantages of adopting a supply network perspective. Protecting global markets, defining market relationships and partnerships, and encouraging rivals to collaborate are possible outcomes or objectives of adopting a supply network perspective, but they are not the benefits of the perspective itself.
