CWNP Certified Wireless Analysis Professional Sample Questions (Q79-Q84):

NEW QUESTION # 79
What action is taken automatically by 802.11 APs and client STAs as the signal strength of the link weakens in order to improve the quality of the RF communications overall?

- A. Output power is increased
- B. Data rates are reduced
- C. RSSI is increased
- D. Antenna gain is increased

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 80

What is the difference between a Data frame and a QoS-Data frame?

- A. QoS Data frames include a QoS control field
- B. QoS Data frames include a QoS information element
- C. QoS Data frames include a DSCP control field
- D. QoS Data frames include an 802.1Q VLAN tag

Answer: A

Explanation:

The difference between a Data frame and a QoS-Data frame is that QoS Data frames include a QoS control field. A Data frame is a type of data frame that is used to carry user data or upper layer protocol data between STAs and APs. A QoS Data frame is a type of data frame that is used to carry user data or upper layer protocol data between STAs and APs that support QoS (Quality of Service) features. QoS features allow different types of traffic to be prioritized and handled differently according to their QoS requirements, such as delay, jitter, throughput, etc. QoS Data frames include a QoS control field in their MAC header, which contains information such as traffic identifier (TID), queue size (TXOP), acknowledgment policy (ACK), etc., that are used for QoS purposes. The other options are not correct, as they do not describe the difference between Data and QoS Data frames. QoS Data frames do not include a DSCP (Differentiated Services Code Point) control field, which is part of the IP header in the network layer, not the MAC header in the data link layer. QoS Data frames do not include a QoS information element (IE), which is part of some management frames that indicate QoS capabilities or parameters, not data frames. QoS Data frames do not include an 802.1Q VLAN tag, which is part of some Ethernet frames that indicate VLAN membership or priority, not wireless frames. NEW QUESTION # 81

You are analyzing a packet decode of a Probe Request and notice the SSID element has a length of zero.
What do you conclude about the transmitting STA?

- A. The STA is discovering a list of available BSSs
- B. The STA is operating in Ad-Hoc mode
- C. The WLAN adaptor is configured in promiscuous mode
- D. The STA's WLAN adaptor is disabled

Answer: A

Explanation:

The STA is discovering a list of available BSSs by sending a Probe Request with an empty SSID element.
This is also known as a broadcast Probe Request, as it does not specify any particular SSID to probe for. Any AP that receives this Probe Request will respond with a Probe Response containing its own SSID and other information about its BSS. This way, the STA can learn about all the BSSs in its vicinity and choose which one to associate with . NEW QUESTION # 82

You are performing a multiple adapter channel aggregation capture to troubleshoot a VoIP roaming problem and would like to measure the roaming time from the last VoIP packet sent on the old AP's channel to the first VoIP packet sent on the new AP's channel. Which timing column in the packet view would measure this for you?

- A. Absolute
- B. Roaming
- C. Delta
- D. Relative

Answer: C

Explanation:

Delta is the timing column in the packet view that measures the time difference between two consecutive packets in a capture file. Delta can be used to measure the roaming time from the last VoIP packet sent on the old AP's channel to the first VoIP packet sent on the new AP's channel by selecting these two packets and looking at their delta values. The other timing columns are not suitable for this measurement because they do not show the time difference between two specific packets. Roaming is a column that shows whether a packet belongs to a roaming event or not. Relative is a column that shows the time elapsed since the beginning of the capture file. Absolute is a column that shows the date and time when a packet was captured5 References:

NEW QUESTION # 83

You have implemented an AP at a remote office. It is a single-band AP supporting 802.11ac. Several users complain that their laptops cannot connect to the WLAN. These laptops are from multiple vendors and range in age from 2 to 4 years. The SSID and security profile settings are correct. All default settings were used on the AP with the exception of the SSID and security settings. What is the most likely issue preventing these STAs from connecting to the AP?

- A. They do not support VHI and only support OFDM
- B. They do not support the basic data rates
- C. They are 5 GHz-only devices
- D. They are 2.4 GHz-only devices

Answer: C
