NETA Level 2 Certified Assistant Electrical Testing Specialist Sample Questions (Q83-Q88):

NEW QUESTION # 83

In a zone-interlocked low-voltage circuit breaker scheme, if the breaker responsible for clearing a fault fails to operate, which statement is correct?

- A. The fault will remain uncleared
- B. The upstream breaker will trip immediately
- C. All breakers will trip simultaneously
- D. The downstream breaker will trip

Answer: D

Explanation:

Zone-selective interlocking (ZSI) improves coordination by allowing downstream devices to trip first while restraining upstream devices. If the downstream breaker fails to clear the fault, restraint signals are removed and the next upstream breaker trips to isolate the fault.

NETA Level 2 technicians must understand this fail-safe behavior when commissioning protection systems and validating coordination logic.

NEW QUESTION # 84

Which voltage is recommended by NETA-ATS for a 15-minute AC withstand test on a three-phase 34.5 kV line sectionalizer rated for a 150 kV impulse withstand voltage?

- A. 60 kVAC
- B. 78 kVAC
- C. 69 kVAC
- D. 90 kVAC

Answer: B

Explanation:

NETA-ATS specifies withstand test voltages based on equipment rating and impulse withstand capability. For a 34.5 kV line sectionalizer with a 150 kV BIL, the recommended 15-minute AC withstand test voltage is 78 kVAC. NETA Level 2 technicians must apply the correct test voltage to avoid damaging insulation while still verifying dielectric integrity.

NEW QUESTION # 85

Transformer oil samples drawn when the oil temperature is below 32°F (0°C) may:

- A. Always indicate excessive moisture
- B. Be invalid for testing
- C. Not reveal free water
- D. Show artificially high dielectric strength

Answer: C

Explanation:

At low temperatures, free water can solidify and remain suspended, preventing accurate detection. NETA Level 2 technicians must consider temperature effects when interpreting oil analysis results.

NEW QUESTION # 86

A battery bank consists of 60 cells, each rated 2 V. What is the nominal DC voltage of the battery bank?

- A. 240 V
- B. 60 V
- C. 120 V
- D. 100 V

Answer: C

Explanation:

Battery bank voltage is calculated by summing the individual cell voltages in series:

$$60 \times 2 \text{ V} = 120 \text{ V}$$

NETA Level 2 technicians routinely test station batteries used for control power and protection systems.

Accurate voltage verification is critical for ensuring breaker tripping capability and relay operation during loss of AC power.

NEW QUESTION # 87

Secondary injection testing of a low-voltage air circuit breaker is:

- A. Less comprehensive than primary injection testing
- B. More comprehensive than primary injection testing
- C. Not permitted by NETA standards
- D. Equivalent to primary injection testing for acceptance

Answer: A

Explanation:

Secondary injection testing verifies the operation of the trip unit electronics, but it does not test the entire current path, sensors, or mechanical trip linkage under load conditions. Primary injection testing is more comprehensive because it verifies the breaker's response to actual current flowing through the primary circuit.

NETA Level 2 technicians must understand the limitations of secondary injection and when primary injection is required for acceptance testing.
