Adobe Workfront Project Manager Certified Professional Sample Questions (Q54-Q59):

NEW QUESTION # 54

A project manager needs to see specific tasks and issues across all of their projects in a single view. The project manager only needs to see tasks and issues that are currently pending approval, and the results should be grouped by project. What steps should the project manager take to create this view?

- A. Visit the Project page and create a new filter. Update the "Pending Approval" filter to "true" and update the Project Owner ID field to the project manager's name. In the grouping tab, add a grouping for project name.
- B. Visit the Reports page and create a Pending Approvals report. In the filter tab, update the Project Owner ID field with the project manager's name and update the Object ID field to "tasks" and "issues." In the grouping tab, add a grouping for project name.
- C. Visit the Reports page and create a task report and an issue report. In the filter tab for each report, update the "Pending Approval" filter to "true," and update the Project Owner ID field with the project manager's name. In the grouping tab for each report, add a grouping for project name. Add both reports to a new dashboard.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The most comprehensive approach is to create two separate reports—one for tasks and one for issues—with filters set for "Pending Approval." Grouping the results by project name ensures that the project manager can see all relevant tasks and issues organized per project. Adding these reports to a dashboard consolidates the information into a single view, providing easy access for tracking pending approvals.

NEW QUESTION # 55

When a project owner grants Contribute access on a project to a user with the same access level as the project owner, what can that user do?

- A. Add a custom form
- B. Attach a template to the project
- C. Add tasks

Answer: A

Explanation:

In Workfront, users with "Contribute" access are typically able to modify and interact with content but are not allowed to perform higher-level administrative tasks like attaching templates or adding tasks. Adding a custom form is within the scope of what a user with Contribute access can do, as it involves adding data input fields to an existing project.

NEW QUESTION # 56

Which project Condition is set when the Progress Status of the project is Behind or At Risk?

- A. In Trouble
- B. At Risk
- C. Late

Answer: B

Explanation:

In Adobe Workfront, when a project's progress status is marked as Behind or At Risk, the project condition is set to At Risk. This indicates that the project may not meet its deadline or performance metrics, signaling to the project team and stakeholders that corrective action may be necessary. The "In Trouble" status is reserved for more severe cases, and "Late" is generally used for tasks or projects that have passed their planned completion dates without being finished.

The At Risk status allows proactive intervention to address potential issues before they escalate into bigger problems.

NEW QUESTION # 57

Which date type on tasks can a project manager manually modify?

- A. Estimated
- B. Planned
- C. Projected

Answer: B

Explanation:

In Adobe Workfront, Planned Dates are the dates that project managers can manually modify. These dates represent the schedule that the project is expected to follow and can be adjusted based on project needs. Estimated and Projected Dates are automatically calculated by the system based on task progress and dependencies, and these cannot be manually modified directly by a project manager. The Projected date is influenced by changes in the actual completion rate of tasks, whereas the Planned Date is the baseline schedule.

NEW QUESTION # 58

Taking into consideration any applied task constraints, a project manager needs to know the date that a task is likely to be finished based upon the current progress of the task and its predecessors. Which date type should the project manager utilize?

- A. Estimated Date
- B. Projected Date
- C. Planned Date

Answer: B

Explanation:

The Projected Date in Adobe Workfront is dynamically calculated based on the progress of the task, any task constraints, and its dependencies. This date provides a more accurate reflection of when a task is likely to be completed, considering the current progress and any updates to predecessor tasks. On the other hand, the Planned Date refers to the originally scheduled completion date, and the Estimated Date is not manually entered but inferred from system calculations.
