NEW QUESTION # 198

A PrimaryId__c custom field exists on the Candidate__c custom object. The field is used to store each candidate's id number and is marked as Unique in the schema definition.

As part of a data enrichment process, Universal Containers has a CSV file that contains updated data for all candidates in the system. The file contains each Candidate's primary .. as a data point. Universal Containers wants to upload this information into Salesforce, while ensuring all data rows are correctly mapped to a candidate in the system.

Which technique should the developer implement to streamline the data upload?

- A. Create a before save flow to correctly map the records.
- B. Upload the CSV into-a custom object related to candidate__c.
- C. Create a before insert trigger to correctly map the records,
- D. Update the Primarytd__c field definition to mark it. as.an External Id.

Answer: D

Explanation:

* C. Update the PrimaryId__c field definition to mark it as an External Id:

* Marking PrimaryId__c as an External Id allows Salesforce to use this field to match records during the data import process, streamlining the process of mapping CSV rows to existing Candidate__c records.

* External Id fields are indexed and can be used in tools like Data Loader, Data Import Wizard, or API-based upserts to ensure that records are matched correctly based on the value of the external ID field.

* In this case, since PrimaryId__c is unique, marking it as an external ID eliminates the need for custom triggers or flows.

* Why this is the best solution?

- * This technique leverages built-in Salesforce capabilities (no need for custom code or automation).
  - * It ensures accurate record matching and is the standard approach for data enrichment tasks involving unique identifiers.
- Why not the other options?
- * A. Upload the CSV into a custom object related to Candidate__c:
  - * This approach unnecessarily introduces another object, adding complexity. The goal is to update existing Candidate__c records, not store the data in a separate object.
  - * B. Create a before insert trigger to correctly map the records:
  - * Using triggers for this purpose is overengineering. Salesforce already provides tools like upsert for this exact use case. Writing a trigger would require additional effort and could introduce unintended errors or performance issues.
  - * D. Create a before save flow to correctly map the records:
  - * While flows are powerful, they are not the optimal solution for this use case. Data mapping is better handled using an external ID during import to ensure proper matching and updates.
