NEW QUESTION # 51

You plan to create a table to hold client data.

You have the following data integrity requirements:

- * Lookups into other records must be established.
- * Validate if a record exists in a destination record.

You need to select the table field property to use for each requirement.

Which table field property should you use? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

□

Answer:

Explanation:

□

Explanation:

For the data integrity requirements, the table field properties to use are:

- * To establish lookups into other records, use the TableRelation property.
- * To validate if a record exists in a destination record, use the ValidateTableRelation property.

In Business Central, when creating tables to hold data, maintaining data integrity is crucial:

* TableRelation Property: This property is used to create a relationship between the field in one table and a field in another table, which is typically used for lookups. When you set the TableRelation property on a field, it allows users to select from a list of values that exist in the related table.

* ValidateTableRelation Property: This property is used to ensure that the value entered in a field matches one of the values in a related table. If a user tries to enter a value that doesn't exist in the related table, an error will occur.

NEW QUESTION # 52

You need to create the code related to the Subcontract Documents table to meet the requirement for the quality department.

How should you complete the code segment? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.
