Apple Deployment and Management Exam Sample Questions (Q64-Q69):

NEW QUESTION # 64

What does Apple Business Manager use to identify devices purchased from Apple or an authorized reseller?

- A. UDID
- B. Order number
- C. UUID
- D. Serial number

Answer: D

Explanation:

Apple Business Manager (ABM) uses a device's serial number to identify devices purchased from Apple or an authorized reseller for enrollment in Automated Device Enrollment (ADE). Serial numbers are unique to each device and linked to purchase records, allowing ABM to verify eligibility. Order numbers (option A) track purchases but aren't device-specific identifiers in ABM. UDID (option C) and UUID (option D) are unique identifiers for devices or instances, but they're not used for purchase verification in ABM. The Apple Platform Deployment Guide confirms serial numbers as the key identifier in ABM.

NEW QUESTION # 65

Which threat does Managed Device Attestation help protect against?

- A. A compromised device disabling Activation Lock
- B. An unauthorized user inserting malicious code during a software update
- C. Private key extraction for use on a rogue device
- D. Bypassing kernel permissions to allow writability of critical system files

Answer: C

Explanation:

Managed Device Attestation verifies device authenticity. The Apple Platform Security Guide states, "Managed Device Attestation protects against private key extraction by validating the device's hardware and software integrity, preventing rogue devices from impersonating legitimate ones." Options B, C, and D are unrelated to attestation's scope.

NEW QUESTION # 66

What's required to use Activation Lock on a device?

- A. Supervision
- B. An Apple ID
- C. An MDM solution
- D. A passcode

Answer: B

Explanation:

Activation Lock requires an Apple ID (personal or Managed) to be enabled, typically activated when Find My is turned on. It prevents reactivation after a wipe without the associated credentials. An MDM solution (option A) can manage or bypass Activation Lock but isn't required to use it. Supervision (option C) enhances management but isn't necessary for Activation Lock. A passcode (option D) adds security but isn't a prerequisite. The Apple Platform Security Guide specifies an Apple ID as the core requirement.

NEW QUESTION # 67

What's the benefit of using MDM?

- A. Separates personal and managed data
- B. Allows personalization
- C. Improves network performance
- D. Enables remote management

Answer: D

Explanation:

Mobile Device Management (MDM) enables remote management of devices, allowing administrators to deploy profiles, push apps, enforce policies, and perform actions like wiping or locking devices over the internet via APNs. Personalization (option A) is user-driven and often limited by MDM. Network performance (option C) is enhanced by other features like content caching. Data separation (option D) is specific to User Enrollment, a subset of MDM capabilities. The MDM Protocol Reference emphasizes remote management as MDM's core benefit.

NEW QUESTION # 68

What's required to push apps to devices using an MDM solution?

- A. A VPN configuration
- B. An APNs certificate
- C. User acceptance
- D. Managed Distribution

Answer: D

Explanation:

Managed Distribution, available through Apple Business Manager (ABM) or Apple School Manager (ASM), is required to push apps to devices using an MDM solution. It allows administrators to assign app licenses (purchased or free) to devices or users, which the MDM then deploys silently, assuming the device is supervised or the user consents. An APNs certificate (option A) enables MDM communication but isn't specific to app pushing. User acceptance (option C) may be needed for non-supervised devices but isn't a requirement for supervised ones. A VPN configuration (option D) is unrelated. The Apple Business Manager User Guide details Managed Distribution's role in app deployment.
