Esri Enterprise Administration Professional 2201 Sample Questions (Q67-Q72):

NEW QUESTION # 67
A GIS analyst publishes a 3D scene from ArcGIS Pro to ArcGIS Enterprise to create a hosted 3D scene layer.
Which data store hosts the data for the 3D scene layer?

- A. Relational
- B. Tile cache
- C. Raster

Answer: B

Explanation:
Hosted 3D scene layers are stored in thetile cache data store, which is optimized for storing and serving cached 3D content, such as buildings and elevation surfaces. This data store supports scene layers published from ArcGIS Pro and allows for efficient rendering in 3D web scenes within the portal.
Therelational data storeis used for feature layers and structured tabular data. Theraster data storesupports large raster datasets for imagery layers. Neither is appropriate for 3D scene layer content. Thus, for hosted 3D scenes, the correct data store is thetile cache.

NEW QUESTION # 68
A single Linux machine deployment of ArcGIS Enterprise has a home partition of 20 GB, a /data partition of 150 GB, and an /opt partition of 75 GB.
Where should the configuration store and directories be located?

- A. /data
- B. /home
- C. /opt

Answer: A

Explanation:
Theconfiguration store and server directoriesfor ArcGIS Enterprise should be placed in a partition with ample disk spaceandstable read/write performance, as these directories store logs, cache, uploads, and critical site configuration information.
In this scenario:
* The /home partition (20 GB) is insufficient for growth and operational overhead.
* The /opt partition (75 GB) is moderately sized but still smaller than the /data partition.
* The /data partition (150 GB) provides the most space, making it the best choice to ensure scalability and system reliability.
Best practicefrom ArcGIS Enterprise documentation recommends placing server directories and configuration stores on high-capacity partitions like /data when available.

NEW QUESTION # 69
Multiple users report that a map service is experiencing negative performance. Upon review of ArcGIS Monitor data, the GIS analyst finds the following:
* The minimum number of instances is 2 and the maximum is 8 for that service.
* The data is in a publication Enterprise Geodatabase with no system usage in excess of 50%.
* At the p75 level of requests, the map service time is 10 times longer than the service time at the p25 level.
* The number of instances in use at the p50 level is 8.
* The maximum % of physical memory in use is 40%, and the maximum % of virtual memory in use is 44% on the ArcGIS Server.
* The maximum % CPU utilization observed is 53%.
What is causing the issue?

- A. The client is an Android device, and the ArcGIS Server is a Linux virtual machine.
- B. The maximum instance setting is too low for the demand on the underperforming map service.
- C. The network connection between the database server and ArcGIS Server is saturated.

Answer: B

Explanation:
The ArcGIS Monitor data indicates that the map service is reaching its maximum configured instances (8) at the median usage level (p50), suggesting that the service cannot scale to meet higher demand. The significant increase in service time at the p75 level further supports that the service is under-provisioned. Since system resources like CPU and memory are not fully utilized, the bottleneck is likely due to the instance configuration. Increasing the maximum number of instances would allow the service to handle more concurrent requests, improving performance.
There is no evidence of network saturation or client-specific issues affecting performance in this scenario.

NEW QUESTION # 70
An organization experiences a temporary loss of service for its ArcGIS Enterprise deployment due to expired licenses.
What should the administrator have done to prevent this issue?

- A. Design an information banner to automatically display the license expiration date
- B. Configure the ArcGIS Enterprise portal to send an automated email when the portal license is expiring
- C. Create a Python script to run an administrative report and schedule the script to run regularly
- D. Use the license file in read-only mode to extend the license

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 71
An organization publishes a map image layer to ArcGIS Enterprise that references data from a user-managed PostgreSQL geodatabase.
The schema of a table is updated toadd a field, but the map service cannot be stopped due to a Service Level Agreement (SLA).
Schema locking is disabled.
Even after restarting the map service and database, the new field is not shown in the REST endpoint.
Which action should the administrator perform?

- A. Ensure that the field is made visible by default in the ArcGIS Enterprise portal
- B. Re-enable schema locking for the map service
- C. Republish the map service by overwriting the original
- D. Clear the enterprise geodatabase cache

Answer: C

Explanation:
Map image layers (map services)do not automatically detect schema changes, especially in registered enterprise geodatabases. Even withschema locking disabled,servicescache the original schemaat the time of publishing. To reflect the new field, you mustoverwrite the existing service.
From ArcGIS Server documentation:
"If the schema of a dataset is changed after a service is published (such as adding a field), the change is not automatically reflected in the service. You must overwrite the service or republish the map to reflect schema updates."
* OptionBis not applicable; field visibility in the portal reflects what's in the published service definition.
* OptionCis related to editing access, not field visibility.
* OptionDis not a valid administrative action in this context.
