NEW QUESTION # 29

Which technique can be used with Lightning web components to expose them outside of an org in another web container?

- A. Heroku
- B. Lightning Canvas
- C. Slot elements
- D. Lightning Out

Answer: D

Explanation:

Lightning Out because this is a technique that allows developers to use Lightning web components outside of Salesforce servers, such as in a Node.js app running on Heroku or a department server inside the firewall<sup>2</sup>. Lightning Out uses a standalone Aura dependency app to host the Lightning web components and expose them to an external web container<sup>2</sup>. The other options are incorrect because they are not techniques for exposing Lightning web components outside of an org. Slot elements are a way to create reusable components with dynamic content<sup>3</sup>. Heroku is a cloud platform that supports various languages and frameworks, but it does not directly expose Lightning web components<sup>4</sup>. Lightning Canvas is a framework that enables developers to integrate third-party applications into Salesforce<sup>5</sup>, but it does not support Lightning web components<sup>6</sup>. ### NEW QUESTION # 30

Which two places can the administrator go to set up variation products using the B2B commerce apps navigation menu?

- A. Catalogs.
- B. Products
- C. Product Workspace
- D. Commerce setup
- E. Entitlement Policies

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

According to the Product Variations and Attributes page, product variations and attributes are features that allow you to create and manage products that have different versions or options, such as size, color, style, etc. Product variations and attributes can be set up using the B2B Commerce app navigation menu in two places: Products and Product Workspace. Products option allows you to access the product list view, where you can create, edit, delete, clone, or import/export products. Product Workspace option allows you to access the product workspace, where you can view and edit product details, such as name, description, status, visibility, category, image, etc. You can also add product variations and attributes in the product workspace by using the Variation Grouping tab or the Guided Setup tab. Therefore, options A and D are correct. Options B, C, and E are false because Commerce Setup, Entitlement Policies, and Catalogs are not places where you can set up product variations and attributes using the B2B Commerce app navigation menu. Commerce Setup option allows you to install components for your B2B Commerce site, such as reports, dashboards, sample data, etc. Entitlement Policies option allows you to manage entitlement policies for your B2B Commerce site, such as minimum order quantity, maximum order quantity, reorder frequency, etc. Catalogs option allows you to manage catalogs and catalog assignments for your B2B Commerce site. Catalogs are collections of products that are available for a store or a reorder portal. Reference: Product Variations and Attributes, Product Variations and Attributes Overview

NEW QUESTION # 31

Which product type should be used to offer slight variations of the same product on one product detail page?

- A. Component Product
- B. Aggregated Product
- C. Variant Product
- D. Composite Product

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

According to the Product Variations and Attributes page, variant product is the product type that should be used to offer slight variations of the same product on one product detail page. Variant products are products that share common attributes but differ in one or more ways, such as color or size. Variant products are grouped under a parent product and displayed as variations on a single product detail page. Therefore, option B is correct. Option A is false because component product is a product type that is used to create bundles of products that are sold together. Option C is false because aggregated product is a product type that is used to group multiple products under one parent product and display them as separate line items on the cart page. Option D is false because composite product is a product type that is used to create complex products that consist of multiple components with different attributes and prices. #### NEW QUESTION # 32

A company sells t-shirts that come in multiple sizes and colors.

Which two steps should an Administrator take to implement the products for this company?

- A. Create a T-Shirt Variable Product.
- B. Create a Product Variation Rule.
- C. Create a T-Shirt Parent Product.
- D. Create Product Variations.

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

Explanation

To implement the products for a company that sells t-shirts that come in multiple sizes and colors, an administrator should take two steps: create product variations and create a t-shirt parent product. A product variation is a product that has different variations based on attributes, such as size or color. A t-shirt parent product is a product that groups together all the t-shirt variations that share the same attributes. An administrator can use the Product Workbench to create product variations and t-shirt parent products for a store. References: Product Variations and Attributes; Product Workbench

NEW QUESTION # 33

In which two ways can Tiered Pricing tables be input?

Choose 2 answers

- A. JSON text field
- B. TheCC Product Record
- C. Visualforce component on the Price List Item
- D. SOQL Query

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

Explanation

Tiered Pricing tables can be input in two ways:

JSON text field: Tiered Pricing tables can be input as a JSON text field on the Price List Item. This allows you to define complex Tiered Pricing rules with multiple tiers and conditions.

Visualforce component on the Price List Item: You can also use a Visualforce component to input Tiered Pricing tables. This gives you more flexibility in how you define and display your Tiered Pricing rules.
