Salesforce Certified B2C Commerce Architect Sample Questions (Q48-Q53):

NEW QUESTION # 48

A new version of the Page Show controller is required for implementation of Page Deserter specific look. It requires implementation of a specific, cache period for Page Designer pages, which is not currently available in the base Storefront Reference Architecture (SFRA) cache.js module. What two steps should the Architect instruct the developer to implement?
Choose 2 answers

- A. Create new Page.js controller in client's cartridge. Copy code from base and modify the Page-Show route to include the new cache middleware function.
- B. Create new cache.js client's cartridge. Copy cache.js from app_storefront_base and add a function for the Page Designer caching.

- C. Create new cache.js in client's cartridge. Extend cache.js from app_storefront_base and add a function for the Page Designer caching.
- D. Create new Page.js controller in client's cartridge. Extend the code from base and prepend the new cache middleware function to Page-Show route.

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

To implement a specific cache period for Page Designer pages in SFRA:

* Option A involves creating a new Page.js controller in the client's cartridge, where the existing Page- Show route can be modified to include a custom caching logic. This ensures that the specific caching requirements for Page Designer pages are met without altering the base functionality for other pages.

* Option D calls for extending the existing cache.js module in the client's cartridge to include a function specifically for Page Designer caching. This allows for reusing the existing caching logic while adding enhancements specific to the Page Designer pages, thus maintaining efficiency and clarity in the codebase.

Both options provide a clean, maintainable approach to customizing caching for specific requirements in SFRA, avoiding disruptions in other areas of the site functionality.

NEW QUESTION # 49

A company that is a shoe-producer is doing Salesforce B2C Commerce implementation. In their Enterprise Resource Warning (ERP) system, the products are marked as being one of three types: boots, sandals, and sneakers. The business requirements based on the type are:

- * The messaging on Product Detail page is different
- * Customers are able to filter their Product Search Results

The customer's operations team asks about the format in which to send this value in the catalog.

Which data type should the Architect specify for this attribute In the Data Mapping document?

- A. A custom attribute of type enum-of-string (multiselect able value).
- B. A custom attribute of type string containing comma separated values.
- C. A custom attribute of type enum-of-string (single selectable value)
- D. A custom attribute type set-of-string containing multiple values.

Answer: C

Explanation:

For the shoe producer implementing Salesforce B2C Commerce, the attribute used to specify the type of shoes (boots, sandals, sneakers) should be set as a single selectable value, hence the use of an enum-of-string type. This data type allows for the selection of one option from a predefined list, which is ideal for cases where each product can only be categorized into one type. This ensures that data integrity is maintained while providing clear and distinct categorization that can easily be used for filtering on the Product Search Results page and for customized messaging on the Product Detail page.

NEW QUESTION # 50

The storefront integrates with a REST based Address verification service (AVS) that uses token based security. The sequence of calls in the API documentation for this AVS looks like the following

1. Client authentication call, which contains the merchantId and secret in a GET request and returns a token in the response.
2. Address verification call, which contains the token and the address to verify in a POST request.

Once the token is obtained, it is valid for hours and it is not needed to request a new one for subsequent address verification calls, the AVS charges for every request made no matter if it is client authentication call or address verification call.

Which three strategies could be applied to allow for efficient use of the service without compromising security? Choose 3 answers

- A. Use a job to store and update the token in a customobject that is used from the storefront code
- B. Apply page caching to the client authentication controller that is used with AJAX.
- C. Obtain the token from a custom cache before making the client authentication call.
- D. Use HTTPService caching for the client authentication call.
- E. Obtain the token from local storage of the browser and update it once It expires.

Answer: A,C,D

Explanation:

To efficiently use the REST-based Address Verification Service (AVS) while maintaining security, it is crucial to manage token usage and refresh effectively. Using a custom cache to store the token (Answer C) prevents unnecessary authentication calls by reusing the valid token, thus reducing the number of chargeable requests. Implementing HTTPService caching for the client authentication call (Answer D) optimizes the performance by caching the response, thereby avoiding repetitive and unnecessary calls. Lastly, employing a scheduled job to regularly update and store the token in a custom object (Answer E) ensures that the token is always up-to-date and available for use without repeated authentication, thus optimizing the cost and efficiency of using the AVS.

NEW QUESTION # 51

A developer is remotely fetching the reviews for a product.

Assume that it's an HTTP GET request and caching needs to be implemented, what consideration should the developer keep in mind for building the caching strategy?

- A. Remote include with caching only the reviews
- B. Use custom cache
- C. Cache the HTTP service request
- D. Cached remote include with cache of the HTTP service

Answer: D

Explanation:

For efficient caching of HTTP GET requests used to fetch product reviews, the best practice is to use a cached remote include combined with caching of the HTTP service itself (Answer D). This method involves caching the output of the remote service call at the service layer and reusing it for subsequent requests. This approach minimizes the number of calls to the remote service, reduces load times, and ensures that the displayed reviews are up-to-date as per the cache's freshness settings. It optimally balances the performance benefits of caching with the need to keep content like reviews current.

NEW QUESTION # 52

An Architect to notify by the Business that order conversion dramatically dropped a few hours after go live.

Further investigation points out that customers cannot proceed to checkout anymore. The Architect is aware that a custom inventory checks with a third-party API is enforced at the beginning of checkout, and that customers are redirected to the basket page when items are no longer in stock. Which tool can clearly confirm that the problem is indeed caused by the inventory check?

- A. Pipeline Profiler from Business Manager
- B. Service Status from Business Manager
- C. Sales Dashboard from Reports and Dashboards
- D. Realtime Report from Reports and Dashboards

Answer: A

Explanation:

The appropriate tool to verify that the problem is indeed caused by the inventory check at the beginning of checkout is the Pipeline Profiler in Business Manager. This tool allows an architect to analyze the performance of specific code execution paths, including those involving third-party API calls. It helps identify bottlenecks and inefficiencies in the pipeline execution, particularly useful in situations where custom code like inventory checks may impact site functionality. The use of the Pipeline Profiler would enable the architect to pinpoint if the custom inventory check is causing the checkout process to fail or redirect users inappropriately.
