Dynatrace Associate Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q30-Q35):

NEW QUESTION # 30

I need to restrict access of certain log files to specific Dynatrace users, which Dynatrace capability provides this?

- A. OAuth token
- B. Log Security Context
- C. SAML Configuration
- D. Log Viewer
- E. Log Processing rules

Answer: B

Explanation:

Log Security Context in Dynatrace allows restricting access to specific logs based on user roles and permissions.

It enables:

- * Fine-grained access control over log data
- * Segmentation of logs based on teams or responsibilities
- * Secure handling of sensitive log information

Other options do not provide this capability:

- * Log Processing rules transform logs, not control access
- * SAML configuration handles authentication
- * OAuth tokens manage API access
- * Log Viewer is only for viewing logs

Reference: Based on official Dynatrace University training materials covering log management and access control.

NEW QUESTION # 31

Select the Dynatrace capability that provides a visualization of all the topological dependencies in my infrastructure, processes and services.

- A. Dynatrace Extension
- B. Smartscape
- C. Technologies and Processes classic
- D. Services classic

Answer: B

Explanation:

Smartscape is the Dynatrace capability that provides a real-time visualization of the entire environment, including all topological dependencies across infrastructure, processes, services, and applications.

It automatically maps and displays relationships between:

- * Hosts and infrastructure components
- * Processes running on those hosts
- * Services and how they communicate with each other

This dynamic topology view allows users to quickly understand dependencies, identify bottlenecks, and analyze the impact of issues across the full stack.

Other options such as "Technologies and Processes classic" and "Services classic" provide filtered or specific views but do not deliver the complete, unified topology visualization. "Dynatrace Extension" is used to extend monitoring capabilities and does not provide topology visualization.

Reference: Based on official Dynatrace University training materials describing Smartscape and topology visualization.

NEW QUESTION # 32

I have a Smart IoT device which supports neither OneAgent nor Agentless RUM. What could I use to track User Sessions in Dynatrace?

- A. Dynatrace Extensions v2
- B. Dynatrace OpenKit
- C. Dynatrace WebAgent

Answer: B

Explanation:

OpenKit is used for custom instrumentation when standard agents are not supported.

It enables:

- * Tracking user sessions
- * Sending custom telemetry data
- * Monitoring IoT or unsupported environments

Reference: Based on official Dynatrace University training materials on OpenKit.

NEW QUESTION # 33

Which Dynatrace capability can be used to query ingested log data?

- A. JavaScript
- B. DQL
- C. SQL
- D. USQL

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 34

Which view provides detailed W3C timings of pages and resources?

- A. Session Replay
- B. Dynatrace Extensions v2
- C. Distributed Traces
- D. Waterfall analysis

Answer: D

Explanation:

The Waterfall analysis view provides detailed W3C timing breakdowns for web pages and resources. It visualizes how each resource loads, including DNS lookup, connection time, SSL negotiation, request/response time, and rendering.

This allows users to:

- * Identify slow-loading resources
- * Analyze frontend performance issues
- * Understand page load behavior in detail

Session Replay focuses on visual playback of user sessions.

Distributed Traces focus on backend request flows.

Extensions v2 are unrelated to frontend timing analysis.

Reference: Based on official Dynatrace University training materials covering Real User Monitoring and waterfall analysis.
