NEW QUESTION # 150

- A. By sending a GET request to `/api/framework/projects/{projectId}/classifiers/generative_classifier/classification` with a body containing prompts that specify the 'Invoice' and 'Receipt' names and descriptions.
- B. By sending a POST request to `/api/framework/projects/{projectId}/classifiers/generative_classifier/classification` with a body containing prompts that specify the 'Invoice' and 'Receipt' names and a description for their fields.
- C. By sending a POST request to `/api/framework/projects/{projectId}/classifiers/generative_classifier/classification` with a body containing prompts that specify the 'Invoice' and 'Receipt' names and descriptions.
- D. By sending a PUT request to `/api/framework/projects/{projectId}/classifiers/generative_classifier/classification` without any specific classification details in the body of the request.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In UiPath Document Understanding Cloud APIs, the Generative Classifier is used to classify documents by leveraging a generative AI model. To classify a document as either an "Invoice" or a "Receipt," a POST request must be sent to the `/api/framework/projects/{projectId}/classifiers/generative_classifier/classification` endpoint. The body of this request should contain prompts specifying the classification types (in this case, "Invoice" and "Receipt") along with their corresponding descriptions. This allows the model to correctly classify incoming documents based on these predefined prompts.
