NEW QUESTION # 13
Before which process is code review performed when version control is used?

- A. committing code
- B. branching code
- C. merge of code
- D. checkout of code

Answer: C

Explanation:
Code review is typically performed before the merge of code in a version control system. This process involves examining code changes to ensure they meet the required standards, are free of bugs, and align with the project's goals. The review usually happens after code has been committed to a feature branch but before it is merged into the main branch. This helps maintain the integrity of the main branch and ensures that any issues are caught early. More information can be found in best practices for code review.

NEW QUESTION # 14
A function my_func() returns True when it executes normally. Which python snippet tests my_func()?

```
def test_func(self):
    self.assertTrue(my_func())

def test_func(self):
    self.assertRaises(my_func())

def test_func(self):
    self.assertEqual(my_func(), '{true}')

def test_func(self):
    self.assertFalse(my_func())
```

- A. Option B
- B. Option A
- C. Option C
- D. Option D

Answer: B

Explanation:
The function my_func() returns True when it executes normally. To test this function using Python's unittest framework, the correct assertion to use is assertTrue. This method tests if the given expression evaluates to True.
* Option A (self.assertTrue(my_func())): This assertion checks if my_func() returns True.

* Option B (self.assertRaises(my_func())): This is used to check if a specific exception is raised, which is not applicable here.

* Option C (self.assertEqual(my_func(), 'true')): This checks if my_func() returns the string 'true', which is not correct as my_func() returns a boolean True.

* Option D (self.assertFalse(my_func())): This checks if my_func() returns False, which is the opposite of what is needed.
