- A. Model
- B. Relation Type
- C. Asset
- D. Configuration Item (CI)

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

The CMDB contains records of configuration items (CIs) and their relationships. A CI is any component that needs to be managed in order to deliver an IT service, such as a server, an application, or a user. A relation type defines the nature of the connection between two CIs, such as depends on, uses, or contains. A model is a template for a CI that defines its attributes and default values. An asset is a tangible or intangible resource that is tracked and managed by the organization, such as a laptop, a license, or a contract.

discovery'. This naming convention is part of ServiceNow's system property design, where 'glide' typically indicates system properties and 'discovery' specifies that the property is related to the Discovery module.
Properties are used to configure various aspects of the Discovery process, such as behavior, timeouts, and performance settings.

NEW QUESTION # 30
Which of the choices have a higher chance of leading to lost data during CI reclassification? (Choose two.)

- A. Upgrading
- B. Downgrading
- C. Identifying

- D. Switching

Answer: B,D

Explanation:
CI reclassification is the process of changing the class of a CI in the CMDB based on the discovery data. It can be done manually or automatically, depending on the configuration settings. CI reclassification can result in data loss if the new class has fewer or different attributes than the original class, and the existing attribute values are not preserved or mapped to the new class. This can happen when a CI is switched to a different class hierarchy, such as from a Linux Server to a Windows Server, or when a CI is downgraded to a less specific class, such as from a Database to a Software Instance. Therefore, switching and downgrading have a higher chance of leading to lost data during CI reclassification.
