NEW QUESTION # 85

Starting from which Rating does the requirement of Concurrently Maintainability becomes relevant?

- A. Rated-3
- B. Rated-1
- C. Rated-4
- D. Rated-2

Answer: A

Explanation:

The requirement of Concurrently Maintainability becomes relevant starting from Rated-3, according to the Uptime Institute Tier Classification System¹. Concurrently Maintainability means that any component or system in the data centre can be maintained or replaced without affecting the availability of the IT equipment.

This requires having redundant capacity components and multiple independent distribution paths serving the IT equipment. Rated-3 data centres are designed to achieve Concurrently Maintainability and have a minimum uptime of 99.982%. Rated-4 data centres also have Concurrently Maintainability, but they also have Fault Tolerance, which means that they can withstand any single unplanned event without affecting the availability of the IT equipment. Rated-4 data centres have a minimum uptime of 99.995%. Rated-1 and Rated-2 data centres do not have Concurrently Maintainability, as they have only one distribution path serving the IT equipment and no redundant capacity components. Rated-1 data centres have a minimum uptime of 99.671% and Rated-2 data centres have a minimum uptime of 99.741%.

NEW QUESTION # 86

What is the best practice for cutting holes in the raised floor tile?

- A. Draw a cross on the tile and when making a cut-out do not touch a line and avoid the corners.
- B. Cut the tiles at the corner so the pedestals can be used as a vertical cable manager.
- C. Draw a line in the middle of the tile and never touch the line when making the cut.
- D. Anywhere as data centre tiles are designed to allow cut-outs anywhere.

Answer: A

Explanation:

According to the Raised Floor Installation Manual, the best practice for cutting holes in the raised floor tile is to draw a cross on the tile and when making a cut-out do not touch a line and avoid the corners¹. This ensures that the structural integrity and load-bearing capacity of the tile are not compromised. Cutting holes anywhere, touching the line, or cutting the corners can weaken the tile and cause it to crack or collapse¹.

Additionally, the manual recommends using a drill press or a reciprocating saw with a metal or bi-metal cutting blade, and deburring all sharp edges¹.

NEW QUESTION # 87

What is the recommended level of Common Mode Noise (CMN)?

- A. Preferred to be < 1 Volt with a maximum of 3 Volt
- B. CMN has no effect on ICT equipment so any level is ok
- C. > 10 Volt measured at the rack level
- D. > 5 Volt measured at the rack level

Answer: A

Explanation:

As per Certified Data Centre Professional (CDCP) reference materials, Common Mode Noise (CMN) is a type of electrical noise that appears equally on the line and neutral wires with respect to ground, and it can negatively affect sensitive ICT equipment. Excessive CMN at the rack level can lead to data errors, communication problems, equipment malfunctions, or even hardware damage.

The CDCP training and the official exam preparation guide specify that the preferred level of Common Mode Noise at the rack should be less than 1 Volt, and under no circumstances should it exceed 3 Volts.

Keeping CMN at these levels helps ensure the stable and reliable operation of critical data center infrastructure. Higher CMN levels indicate grounding or bonding issues, or possibly interference from electrical or mechanical sources, and must be addressed promptly.

Options A and B (CMN above 5 or 10 Volts) are not acceptable and would present a serious risk to ICT equipment operation and data integrity. Option D is incorrect, as CMN absolutely does affect ICT equipment.

NEW QUESTION # 88

What is a requirement of an FM200 (HFC-227) installation?

- A. Install pre-action sprinklers in the same room as the FM200.
- B. Install the gas containers (tanks) close to the data centre.
- C. Drainage system under the raised floor.
- D. It is a high-pressure gas; therefore nozzles must be mounted with two brackets.

Answer: D

Explanation:

FM200 (HFC-227) is a clean agent fire suppression system that uses a high-pressure gas to extinguish fires by reducing the oxygen concentration and absorbing the heat. FM200 is stored in cylinders at pressures of up to 42 bar (600 psi) and is released through nozzles into the protected area. Because of the high pressure, the nozzles must be mounted with two brackets to prevent them from moving or breaking during discharge. The brackets must be securely attached to the ceiling or wall and aligned with the nozzle outlet. The nozzle outlet must also be free of any obstructions that could affect the discharge pattern or distribution.
