Lpi LPIC Exam 303: Security, version 3.0 Sample Questions (Q151-Q156):

NEW QUESTION # 151

What option of mount.cifs specifies the user that appears as the local owner of the files of a mounted CIFS share when the server does not provide ownership information?

(Specify ONLY the option name without any values or parameters.)

Solution: uid=arg

Determine whether the given solution is correct?

- A. Correct
- B. Incorrect

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 152

What effect does the following command have on TCP packets?

iptables- A INPUT d 10.142.232.1 p tcp --dport 20:21 j ACCEPT

- A. Accept all TCP traffic on port 20 and 21 for the IP address 10.142.232.1
- B. Forward all TCP traffic not on port 20 or 21 to the IP address 10.142.232.1
- C. Accept only TCP traffic from 10.142.232.1 destined for port 20 or 21.
- D. Drop all TCP traffic coming from 10.142.232.1 destined for port 20 or 21.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 153

What is the purpose of performing a TCP SYN scan (nmap -sS) rather than a full TCP connect scan (nmap -sT)?

- A. A SYN scan is slower but more accurate than a connect scan.
- B. There is no difference between the two scan types.
- C. A SYN scan can only be used against UDP services.
- D. A SYN scan does not complete the full TCP three-way handshake, making it faster and less likely to be logged by the target application.

Answer: D

Explanation:

A TCP SYN scan, sometimes called a "half-open" scan, sends a SYN packet and analyzes the response (SYN/ACK indicating an open port, or RST indicating a closed port) without completing the full three-way handshake by sending the final ACK. This makes SYN scans faster than full connect scans and less likely to be logged by the target application itself, since no full connection is ever established, though the scan may still be detected by network-based intrusion detection systems monitoring for unusual SYN patterns.

NEW QUESTION # 154

Which SELinux mode logs policy violations without actually enforcing the policy?

- A. Disabled
- B. Targeted
- C. Permissive
- D. Enforcing

Answer: C

Explanation:

In Permissive mode, SELinux evaluates access requests against the loaded policy and logs any actions that would have been denied, but it does not actually block them. This mode is useful for troubleshooting and policy development, allowing an administrator to review the audit log for potential AVC denials before switching to Enforcing mode, in which violations are actively blocked. Disabled mode turns SELinux off entirely, and Targeted is not a mode but rather a type of policy that only confines specific processes.

NEW QUESTION # 155

What is social engineering?

- A. A type of denial-of-service attack
- B. A type of virus
- C. A type of malware that disguises itself as legitimate software
- D. A type of attack that exploits human psychology to gain access to sensitive information

Answer: D
