Juniper Security, Specialist (JNCIS-SEC) Sample Questions (Q17-Q22):

NEW QUESTION # 17

Which statement defines the function of an Application Layer Gateway (ALG)?

- A. The ALG uses software processes for managing specific protocols.
- B. The ALG uses software processes for permitting or disallowing specific IP address ranges.
- C. The ALG contains protocols that use one application session for each TCP session.
- D. The ALG uses software that is used by a single TCP session using the same port numbers as the application.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The statement that defines the function of an Application Layer Gateway (ALG) is: The ALG uses software processes for managing specific protocols. An ALG is a security component that operates at the application layer (layer 7) of the OSI model and handles data associated with certain application protocols, such as SIP, FTP, RTSP, etc. An ALG acts as a proxy or intermediary between the client and the server applications and performs various functions, such as address and port translation, resource allocation, application response control, and synchronization of data and control traffic. An ALG can also inspect and modify the application payload to enable firewall or NAT traversal, prevent spoofing or DoS attacks, or enforce granular security policies based on application-specific commands. NEW QUESTION # 18

Which two sources are used by Juniper Identity Management Service (JIMS) for collecting username and device IP addresses? (Choose two.)

- A. DNS
- B. OpenLDAP service ports
- C. Active Directory domain controller event logs
- D. Microsoft Exchange Server event logs

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

Juniper Identity Management Service (JIMS) collects username and device IP addresses from both DNS and Active Directory domain controller event logs. DNS is used to resolve hostnames to IP addresses, while Active Directory domain controller event logs are used to get information about user accounts, such as when they last logged in.

NEW QUESTION # 19

Which two devices would you use for DDoS protection with Policy Enforcer? (Choose two.)

- A. MX
- B. QFX
- C. vQFX
- D. vMX

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

The MX and vMX devices can be used for DDoS protection with Policy Enforcer. Policy Enforcer is a Juniper Networks solution that provides real-time protection from DDoS attacks. It can be used to detect and block malicious traffic, and also provides granular control over user access and policy enforcement.

The MX and vMX devices are well-suited for use with Policy Enforcer due to their high-performance hardware and advanced security features.

NEW QUESTION # 20

You are asked to determine how much traffic a popular gaming application is generating on your network. Which action will you perform to accomplish this task?

- A. Enable AppTrack on the proper security zones.
- B. Enable screen options on the proper security zones
- C. Enable APBR on the proper security zones
- D. Enable AppQoS on the proper security zones

Answer: A

Explanation:

AppTrack is a feature of Juniper Networks firewall solutions that allows administrators to track applications, users, and the amount of traffic generated by those applications on the network. AppTrack can be enabled on specific security zones of the network to monitor traffic on those zones. This feature can be used to determine how much traffic a popular gaming application is generating on the network.

For more information, please refer to the Juniper Networks JNCIS-SEC Study Guide.

NEW QUESTION # 21

Exhibit

Which two statements are correct about the configuration shown in the exhibit? (Choose two.)

- A. The session-class parameter is only used when troubleshooting.
- B. Replacing the session-init parameter with session-lose will log unidentified flows.
- C. The others 300 parameter means unidentified traffic flows will be dropped in 300 milliseconds.
- D. Every session that enters the SRX Series device will generate an event

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

The log session-init; command within the policy configuration specifies that an event log entry will be created every time a session is initialized, meaning each new session will generate a log event. This is useful for tracking and analyzing the traffic flows entering the device.

Changing session-init to session-close in the log statement would mean that the device logs sessions when they close instead of when they open. This setting is typically used to log details about the session upon termination, which can help in analyzing the duration, end status, and other parameters of sessions, including those of unidentified flows.
