HPE Aruba Networking ClearPass Exam Sample Questions (Q58-Q63):

NEW QUESTION # 58

A company implements a drop-down list of valid sponsors for their guest network access. What is a significant advantage of this approach?

- A. It reduces the number of required fields in the registration form.
- B. It allows guests to bypass email verification.
- C. It simplifies the sponsor selection process for the guest user.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Providing a drop-down list of valid sponsors simplifies the sponsor selection process by allowing guests to choose from predefined, authorized sponsors. This reduces user errors, ensures sponsor validity, and streamlines the guest registration workflow.

NEW QUESTION # 59

A company is transitioning to a cloud-first strategy and has noticed an increase in the number of IoT devices and remote users connecting to their network. They are concerned about maintaining security and visibility as they migrate more applications to the cloud. Which strategies would best address their concerns?

- A. Limiting network access to only a few trusted devices to minimize threats.
- B. Implementing a traditional perimeter-based security approach to monitor all activities.
- C. Adopting a Zero Trust model with continuous, closed-loop security and role-based access policies.

Answer: C

Explanation:

A Zero Trust model enforces continuous verification of users and devices, applies role-based access policies, and maintains closed-loop security. This approach provides strong security and visibility for IoT devices and remote users while supporting cloud-first architectures where traditional network perimeters are no longer effective.

NEW QUESTION # 60

What is the primary function of the Authentication component in AAA?

Response:

- A. Provides real-time analytics for user activity
- B. Logs session time and data usage
- C. Confirms the identity of a user or device
- D. Determines what resources a user can access

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 61

In a corporate network following Zero Trust best practices, a security team notices unusual activity from a previously authenticated and authorized device. What should the team do next?

- A. Ignore the activity since the device was already authenticated.
- B. Reduce the device's privileges or quarantine it for further investigation.
- C. Increase the device's access privileges to monitor more closely.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Zero Trust operates on the principle of Continuous Risk Assessment . Initial authentication is not a "permanent pass." If a device's behavior changes (detected by a traffic monitor or firewall), ClearPass must be able to revoke or reduce its access. The correct response is to move the device to a Quarantine VLAN or apply a restrictive ACL via CoA. This "closed-loop" security prevents lateral movement while the security team investigates the anomaly.

NEW QUESTION # 62

An IT specialist is configuring authentication methods for a network resource in ClearPass. They need to ensure that only valid methods are used and that the client credentials are authenticated against multiple sources in a specific order. What should the specialist do?

- A. Select multiple authentication sources and order them from top-down
- B. Add new RADIUS CoA Action for each authentication source
- C. Use the Authorization tab to configure authentication methods

Answer: A

Explanation:

ClearPass allows multiple authentication sources to be selected and evaluated in a defined sequence. By ordering the sources from top to bottom, ClearPass attempts authentication against each source in order until valid credentials are successfully authenticated or all sources are exhausted.
