NEW QUESTION # 87

Note: This question is part of a series of questions that present the same scenario. Each question in the series contains a unique solution that might meet the stated goals. Some question sets might have more than one correct solution, while others might not have a correct solution.

After you answer a question in this section, you will NOT be able to return to it. As a result, these questions will not appear in the review screen.

You have a Microsoft 365 tenant and 500 computers that run Windows 11. The computers are onboarded to Microsoft Purview. You discover that a third-party application named Tailspin_scanner.exe accessed protected sensitive information on multiple computers. Tailspin_scanner.exe is installed locally on the computers.

You need to block Tailspin_scanner.exe from accessing sensitive documents without preventing the application from accessing other documents.

Solution: From Microsoft Defender for Cloud Apps, you create an app discovery policy.

Does this meet the goal?

- A. Yes
- B. No

Answer: B

Explanation:

Creating an app discovery policy in Microsoft Defender for Cloud Apps is used for detecting and monitoring cloud application usage, but it does not prevent a locally installed application (Tailspin_scanner.exe) from accessing sensitive files on Windows 11 devices.

To block Tailspin_scanner.exe from accessing sensitive documents while allowing it to access other files, the correct solution is to use Microsoft Purview Endpoint Data Loss Prevention (Endpoint DLP) and add Tailspin_scanner.exe to the Restricted Apps list.

Endpoint DLP allows you to block specific applications from accessing sensitive files while keeping general access available.

Restricted Apps List in Endpoint DLP ensures that Tailspin_scanner.exe cannot open, copy, or process protected documents, but it can still function normally for non-sensitive content.

NEW QUESTION # 88

You have a Microsoft 365 ES subscription.

A security manager receives an email message every time a data loss prevention (DIP) policy match occurs.

You need to limit alert notifications to actionable DLP events. What should you do?

- A. From the Microsoft Purview portal, modify the User overrides settings of a DLP policy.
- B. From the Microsoft Purview portal, modify the Policy Tips settings of a DLP policy.
- C. From the Microsoft Purview portal, modify the matched activities threshold of an alert policy.
- D. From the Microsoft Defender portal, apply a filter to the alerts.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 89

You have a new Microsoft 365 E5 tenant.

You need to create a custom trainable classifier that will detect product order forms. The solution must use the principle of least privilege.

What should you do first? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

Answer Area
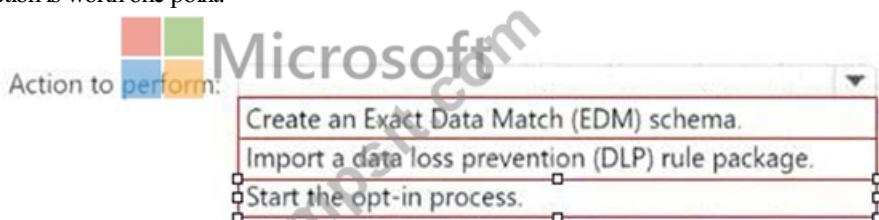

Action to perform:

| Create an Exact Data Match (EDM) schema. |
| Import a data loss prevention (DLP) rule package. |
| Start the opt-in process. |

To perform the action, assign the role of:
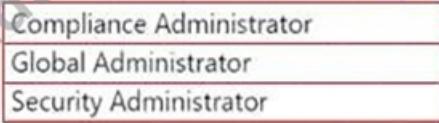

| Compliance Administrator |
| Global Administrator |
| Security Administrator |

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation:

To create a custom trainable classifier in Microsoft Purview (formerly Microsoft Compliance Center), you must first opt into the trainable classifier feature.

Before using custom trainable classifiers, Microsoft requires manual opt-in through the Microsoft Purview compliance portal. Without this step, you cannot create a new classifier.

The Compliance Administrator role has the necessary permissions to configure data classification, DLP policies, and trainable classifiers. Global Administrator has higher privileges but is not required for this task, violating the principle of least privilege. Security Administrator is focused on security-related settings but does not manage compliance features like classifiers.
