How should an administrator grant access to the respiratory therapist using out-of-the-box Health Cloud features?

- A. Add the respiratory therapist to the patient's Account Team and default access will be automatically granted.
- B. Add the respiratory therapist to the patient's Care Team and grant Read or Read/Write access as needed.
- C. Add the respiratory therapist to the patient's Account Team and grant Read or Read/Write access as needed.
- D. Add the respiratory therapist to the patient's Care Team and default access will be automatically granted.

Answer: B

Explanation:

In Salesforce Health Cloud, granting access to patient data for healthcare providers or supporting personnel is efficiently managed through Care Teams.

Key Details:

Care Teams in Health Cloud:

A Care Team represents the group of professionals supporting a patient.

Access levels (Read or Read/Write) can be explicitly granted to Care Team members.

Implementation Steps:

Navigate to the patient's record in Health Cloud.

Open the Care Team section and add the respiratory therapist.

Assign the appropriate Role (e.g., Respiratory Therapist).

Specify the required access level (Read or Read/Write).

Why Care Teams Are Preferred:

Specific Roles: Clearly defines the roles of individuals supporting the patient.

Access Flexibility: Provides fine-grained control over access to patient data.

Why Other Options Are Incorrect:

A and C (Account Team): Account Teams are not designed for patient care management and lack the granularity required for healthcare scenarios.

D (Care Team with Default Access): Default access is not automatically granted; permissions must be explicitly defined.

Supporting Documentation:

Manage Care Teams in Health Cloud (help.salesforce.com)

Role-Based Access in Health Cloud (developer.salesforce.com)

By leveraging Care Teams and assigning appropriate permissions, administrators can efficiently manage access to sensitive patient data while maintaining compliance with privacy regulations.
