EMC Dell Data Science Foundations Sample Questions (Q92-Q97):

NEW QUESTION # 92

What is holdout data?

- A. a subset of the provided data set that is removed by the data scientist because it contains data errors
- B. a subset of the provided data set selected at random and used to initially construct the model
- C. a subset of the provided data set selected at random and used to validate the model
- D. a subset of the provided data set that is removed by the data scientist because it contains outliers

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 93

When building a K-means clustering model, you notice that the clusters did not segment on variables that you expected. What should you do?

- A. Decrease the value of K
- B. Multiply each variable by its standard deviation
- C. Add the WSS to each variable
- D. Check that the data was properly scaled

Answer: D

Explanation:

When building a K-means clustering model, it's important to ensure that the data is properly scaled, as K-means is sensitive to the scale of the variables. If the variables have different scales, the clustering may not segment as expected. Standardizing or normalizing the data can often improve the results.

NEW QUESTION # 94

Which type of numeric value does a logistic regression model estimate?

- A. Probability
- B. Any real number
- C. Any integer
- D. A p-value

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 95

Which analytical method is considered unsupervised?

- A. K-means clustering
- B. Linear regression
- C. Naïve Bayesian classifier
- D. Decision tree

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 96

The Marketing department of your company wishes to track opinion on a new product that was recently introduced. Marketing would like to know how many positive and negative reviews are appearing over a given period and potentially retrieve each review for more in-depth insight.

They have identified several popular product review blogs that historically have published thousands of user reviews of your company's products. You have been asked to provide the desired analysis.

You examine the RSS feeds for each blog and determine which fields are relevant. You then craft a regular expression to match your new product's name and extract the relevant text from each matching review.

What is the next step you should take?

- A. Convert the extracted text into a suitable document representation and index into a review corpus
- B. Read the extracted text for each review and manually tabulate the results
- C. Group the reviews using Naïve Bayesian classification
- D. Use the extracted text and your regular expression to perform a sentiment analysis based on mentions of the new product

Answer: A
