However, the auditor determines management's actions to be justified due to significant changes in the business. The best course of action for the auditor to take would be to:

- A. Inform the external auditors and remove the associated work from the internal audit scope.
- B. Compare the recommended changes against the changes made by management and advise management which action to take.
- C. Inform the external auditors and seek their guidance.
- D. Proceed with the audit engagement and assess the changes actually implemented by management.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 450

According to IIA guidance, which of the following actions by the chief audit executive (CAE) best demonstrates the organizational independence of the internal audit activity?

- A. The CAE reports significant issues to the organization's CEO
- B. The CAE obtains senior management's approval to hire staff
- C. The CAE provides the board with an annual budget for approval
- D. The CAE seeks senior management approval of the internal audit charter

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 451

An organization is facing a financial downturn and needs to impose major budget reductions to all departments. According to MA guidance, which of the following actions is most appropriate for the board to take to evaluate the potential impact on the internal audit activity?

- A. Ask the chief audit executive to determine whether budgetary limitations impede the ability of the internal audit activity to execute its responsibilities.
- B. Ask management to determine which internal audit engagements are lower risk and could be considered for removal from the annual audit plan.
- C. Ask appropriate stakeholders for their opinion on the potential impacts of reducing the scope of the internal audit plan.
- D. Ask The human resources department to determine how the annual compensation and salary of the audit staff could be adjusted to achieve savings.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 452

An organization's board of directors has decided that the internal audit activity must have greater access to different parts of the organization in order to perform their assurance work effectively. Which of the following areas is the board seeking to improve by making this change?

- A. Internal audit authority.
- B. Internal audit reporting structure.
- C. Internal audit independence and objectivity.
- D. Internal audit interaction with the board

Answer: A

Explanation:

By deciding that the internal audit activity must have greater access to different parts of the organization, the board of directors is primarily seeking to improve the internal audit authority. This change aims to empower the internal audit activity with the necessary access to records, personnel, and physical properties to conduct thorough and effective assurance work, thereby enhancing the scope and depth of audits.
