Palo Alto Networks Cloud Security Professional Sample Questions (Q192-Q197):

NEW QUESTION # 192
Which three public cloud providers are supported for VM image scanning? (Choose three.)

- A. Azure
- B. Alibaba
- C. GCP
- D. Oracle
- E. AWS

Answer: A,C,E

Explanation:
VM image scanning is a critical component of cloud security, allowing organizations to identify vulnerabilities within virtual machine images before deployment. The three major public cloud providers supported for VM image scanning are Google Cloud Platform (GCP), Amazon Web Services (AWS), and Microsoft Azure. These platforms offer extensive infrastructure services and are commonly used in various industries, making them primary targets for VM image scanning integration.

GCP, AWS, and Azure each provide capabilities to store, manage, and deploy VM images through their respective services such as Google Compute Engine, AWS EC2, and Azure Virtual Machines. By integrating VM image scanning with these services, organizations can ensure that their VM images are free from known vulnerabilities and comply with security best practices before being deployed in the cloud environment.

This approach to VM image scanning is consistent with Prisma Cloud's comprehensive security strategy, which emphasizes the importance of securing cloud workloads across the entire development lifecycle. By supporting VM image scanning across GCP, AWS, and Azure, Prisma Cloud enables organizations to maintain a consistent security posture across multiple cloud environments, mitigating the risk of deploying vulnerable or misconfigured VM images that could lead to security breaches.

References:

Documentation from GCP, AWS, and Azure on VM management and security best practices provide foundational knowledge for understanding how VM image scanning integrates with each cloud provider's infrastructure services.

Prisma Cloud's documentation and best practices guides offer insights into how VM image scanning is implemented within its security platform to protect cloud workloads across GCP, AWS, and Azure.

NEW QUESTION # 193

An administrator needs to detect and alert on any activities performed by a root account.

Which policy type should be used?

- A. config-run
- B. audit event
- C. network
- D. config-build

Answer: B

Explanation:

To detect and alert on activities performed by a root account, an audit event policy should be used. An audit event policy is a type of policy that can be used to detect suspicious activities or events that may be related to security threats. This type of policy will allow the administrator to monitor and alert on any activities performed by a root account.

https://docs.paloaltonetworks.com/prisma/prisma-cloud/prisma-cloud-admin/prisma-cloud-policies/prisma- cloud-threat-detection

The correct policy type to use in order to detect and alert on any activities performed by a root account is an

"audit event" policy. An audit event policy is designed to monitor and record a series of chronological events in the order they occur, typically used to track user activities and changes within the system. When a root account performs any actions, an audit event policy will log these events, allowing the administrator to review and potentially set up alerts if suspicious or unauthorized activities are detected. This type of policy is crucial for security and compliance purposes as it helps ensure that all actions performed with root privileges are legitimate and authorized.

Reference to this can be found in most cloud security platforms that offer CSPM (Cloud Security Posture Management) solutions. For example, within Prisma Cloud by Palo Alto Networks, audit events are a part of the Activity Monitoring features, which track user activities and system changes to facilitate investigations into suspicious or unauthorized actions.

NEW QUESTION # 194

The InfoSec team wants to be notified via email each time a Security Group is misconfigured. Which Prisma Cloud tab should you choose to complete this request?

- A. Alert Rules
- B. Policies
- C. Notifications
- D. Events

Answer: A

Explanation:

In Prisma Cloud, to notify the InfoSec team via email about misconfigured Security Groups, the appropriate tab to use is "Alert Rules." Alert rules in Prisma Cloud define the conditions under which alerts are generated and the notification channels, including email, where these alerts are sent. By configuring alert rules related to Security Group misconfigurations, the platform can automatically notify the team when such an event occurs, ensuring prompt awareness and response to potential security issues.

NEW QUESTION # 195

How is the scope of each rule determined in the Prisma Cloud Compute host runtime policy?

- A. By the type of network traffic it controls
- B. By the target workload
- C. By the collection assigned to that rule
- D. By the order in which it is created

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 196

How many CLI remediation commands can be added in a custom policy sequence?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: A

Explanation:
You can define up to 5 CLI commands in a sequence for a multi-step automatic remediation workflow. Add the commands in the sequence you want them to execute and separate the commands with a semi colon. If any CLI command included in the sequence fails, the execution stops at that point.
The Prisma Cloud platform allows administrators to define up to 5 CLI commands in a sequence for a multi- step automatic remediation workflow. These commands should be added in the order they are intended to be executed and must be separated by a semicolon. If any CLI command in the sequence fails during execution, the process stops at that point. This feature enables administrators to automate the remediation process efficiently and effectively, ensuring that actions are taken in a specific order to address alerts or compliance issues.
This capability is detailed in the Prisma Cloud documentation under the section for configuring Prisma Cloud to automatically remediate alerts. It's an important feature for maintaining security and compliance in cloud environments, as it allows for quick and automated responses to identified issues.
