Adobe Experience Manager Architect Master Sample Questions (Q49-Q54):

NEW QUESTION # 49
A media company surveys the end users of their AEM Sites website. The survey identifies that it is difficult to locate content on the site due to lack of relevancy and slow performance when navigating through the large volume of content.
To address both issues, the business team suggests integrating an innovative taxonomy product to the company s AEM implementation. The product is new on the market and the development team has no experience with the technology.
Which two steps should an Architect recommend to evaluate this new feature? (Choose two.)

- A. Test usability of the feature with selected business users
- B. Test usability of the feature with selected end users
- C. Develop the integration and deploy it to 50% of the production AEM instances
- D. Develop the integration as proof of concept with full production content
- E. Develop the integration as proof of concept with sample content

Answer: B,E

Explanation:
"developing a proof of concept with sample content allows for testing the feasibility and performance of the integration without affecting production data. Testing usability with selected end users allows for validating the relevancy and user satisfaction of the feature".

NEW QUESTION # 50
A customer has an international presence and a strong brand image. The customer considers the exceptional quality images used for both print and on the website to be essential for its business, The customer uses AEM 6.5 managed services with a configuration of 2 dispatchers, 2 publishers, and 1 author.
The original images can weigh up to 500Mb with videos weighing even more. Renditions are generated after files are uploaded to AEM DAM by the Design team so the Authoring team can use them on the website.
The teams report issues with platform stability and slowness. Visitors report that images look pixelated on some screens and pages are very slow to load.
Which two actions should the Architect take to resolve these issues? (Choose two.)

- A. Train the design team to upload smaller assets and save the originals elsewhere
- B. Allocate more memory to ImageMagick and FFmpeg
- C. Optimize renditions for the different viewports used by the visitors
- D. Split AEM Assets and Sites in two different stacks and use Connected Assets
- E. Add more dispatchers and publishers to the AEM configuration

Answer: C,D

Explanation:
"optimizing renditions for different viewports can improve the image quality and page load speed for visitors. Splitting AEM Assets and Sites in two different stacks and using Connected Assets can reduce the load on the author server and improve platform stability".

NEW QUESTION # 51
An AEM Architect is moving existing content from an on-premise AEM to an AEM Cloud Service instance using the Content Transfer Tool. As part of the initial source preparation, the Architect is going to run the offline compaction on the on-premise AEM. What other two actions should the Architect do to the on-premise AEM before proceeding with the extraction phase? (Choose two.)

- A. Stop all bundles using the AEM Web Console
- B. Verify that free disk space is at least 1.5x the JCR size
- C. Run datastore consistency check via oak-run

- D. Validate that all replication agents are disabled
- E. Verify that wipe mode is enabled

Answer: C,D

Explanation:
According to Adobe Experience Manager documentation1, before using the Content Transfer Tool, it is recommended to disable all replication agents on the source AEM instance to prevent any content changes during the migration process. It is also recommended to run a datastore consistency check via oak-run tool2 to ensure that there are no missing or corrupted binaries in the source AEM instance.

NEW QUESTION # 52

A website built on AEM Sites displays the company's stock price in the footer of all pages. The stock data is retrieved from a third party REST service using two-way SSL and rendered in an AEM component using HTL During performance testing in the last development sprint it becomes apparent that the third party service sometimes takes up to 30 seconds to respond, which degrades the overall site performance.
How should an Architect address this issue?

- A. Add a 5 second timeout to the REST call
- B. Temporarily remove the component from all content
- C. Load the stock data component asynchronously
- D. Call the REST service directly from the browser

Answer: C

Explanation:
"loading the stock data component asynchronously can improve the site performance by not blocking the page rendering while waiting for the REST service response".

NEW QUESTION # 53

A client using AEM 6.5 on-premise is experiencing an unsustainable repository growth of 100Gb a day. After investigation, an Architect finds out that the DAM is causing this issue. Each image uploaded to the DAM triggers the creation of approximately 100 renditions, necessary by business to consume in different channels and systems. The client also complains about stale content reported by site visitors happening randomly in pages where article-related components are present.
How should the Architect address these issues?

- A. Split WCM and DAM in separate instances, set up Connected Assets, and implement a workflow to purge all pages affected by an article change in Dispatcher
- B. Split WCM and DAM in separate instances, set up Connected Assets, and re-implement article-related components to use AJAX to load the content
- C. Leverage AEM Adaptive Image Servlet cache image variations in Dispatcher, and implement a cache TTL in Dispatcher
- D. Leverage AEM Adaptive Image Servlet, cache image variations in Dispatcher, and reimplement article-related components to use AJAX to load the content

Answer: D

Explanation:
According to Adobe Experience Manager documentation1, the Adaptive Image Servlet is a feature that automatically selects the most appropriate rendition of an image asset based on the size of the container in which it is displayed. This can reduce the number of renditions needed and improve performance and scalability of AEM DAM. Caching image variations in Dispatcher can also help reduce repository growth and network traffic. Reimplementing article-related components to use AJAX can prevent stale content issues by dynamically loading fresh content from AEM without refreshing the whole page.
