NEW QUESTION # 43

An Adobe Marketo Engage Architect needs to audit an existing Marketo Engage instance. Upon inspection, more than 1,000 fields that only live in Marketo Engage were created for a single use to collect information for a specific event, or ask a specific question during the registration of an event.
What should the architect recommend to their client regarding field creation best practices?

- A. Create a set of temporary program member fields (PMCF String 1, PMCF String 2, PMCF Boolean 1, PMCF Boolean 2) and utilize those fields on a local form for every event that requires custom questions. Add them to a static list if data needs to be retained.
- B. Create a set of temporary person fields (temp_string 1, temp_string 2, temp_date 1, temp_date 2) and utilize those fields on a local form for every event that requires custom questions. Add them to a static list if data needs to be retained. Clear the data from the temporary fields at the end of the event for utilization by another program.
- C. Create a set of temporary program member fields (PMCF String 1, PMCF String 2, PMCF Boolean 1, PMCF Boolean 2) and utilize those fields on a local form for every event that requires custom questions. No additional action is needed to retain the data.
- D. Create a new unique field for every event or custom question to ensure data accuracy and retention.
