NEW QUESTION # 81

SCENARIO

Clean-Q is a company that offers house-hold and office cleaning services. The company receives requests from consumers via their website and telephone, to book cleaning services. Based on the type and size of service, Clean-Q then contracts individuals that are registered on its resource database - currently managed in-house by Clean-Q IT Support. Because of Clean-Q's business model, resources are contracted as needed instead of permanently employed.

The table below indicates some of the personal information Clean-Q requires as part of its business operations:

□ Clean-Q has an internal employee base of about 30 people. A recent privacy compliance exercise has been conducted to align employee data management and human resource functions with applicable data protection regulation. Therefore, the Clean-Q permanent employee base is not included as part of this scenario.

With an increase in construction work and housing developments, Clean-Q has had an influx of requests for cleaning services. The demand has overwhelmed Clean-Q's traditional supply and demand system that has caused some overlapping bookings.

In a business strategy session held by senior management recently, Clean-Q invited vendors to present potential solutions to their current operational issues. These vendors included Application developers and Cloud-Q's solution providers, presenting their proposed solutions and platforms.

The Managing Director opted to initiate the process to integrate Clean-Q's operations with a cloud solution (LeadOps) that will provide the following solution one single online platform: A web interface that Clean-Q accesses for the purposes of resource and customer management. This would entail uploading resource and customer information.

* A customer facing web interface that enables customers to register, manage and submit cleaning service requests online.

* A resource facing web interface that enables resources to apply and manage their assigned jobs.

* An online payment facility for customers to pay for services.

What is a key consideration for assessing external service providers like LeadOps, which will conduct personal information processing operations on Clean-Q's behalf?

- A. Recognizing the value of LeadOps' website holding a verified security certificate.
- B. Obtaining knowledge of LeadOps' information handling practices and information security environment.
- C. Establishing a relationship with the Managing Director of LeadOps.
- D. Understanding LeadOps' costing model.

Value Sensitive Design (VSD) focuses on which of the following?

- A. Principles and standards.
- B. Ethics and morality.
- C. Quality and benefit.
- D. Privacy and human rights.

Answer: B

Explanation:

* Option A (Quality and benefit): While quality and benefit are important, they do not capture the core focus of VSD, which is more concerned with ethical considerations rather than purely functional or performance-based attributes.

* Option B (Ethics and morality): VSD primarily focuses on incorporating ethical and moral values into technology design. This involves considering the impacts on human values such as privacy, autonomy, and fairness.

* Option C (Principles and standards): While principles and standards are relevant, they do not specifically encapsulate the ethical dimension that VSD emphasizes.

* Option D (Privacy and human rights): While privacy and human rights are important aspects of VSD, the approach is broader, encompassing various ethical and moral values beyond just privacy and human rights.

References:

* Value Sensitive Design literature by Batya Friedman and Peter Kahn.

* Studies on integrating ethical considerations into design processes (e.g., "Value Sensitive Design: Theory and Methods" by Friedman, Kahn, and Borning).
