ECCouncil Certified Ethical Hacker Exam (CEHv13) Sample Questions (Q20-Q25):

NEW QUESTION # 20

Which patch management strategy is most effective?

- A. Manual patching on live servers
- B. Applying all patches regardless of source
- C. External-only patches
- D. Automated patch management with monitoring

Answer: D

Explanation:

CEH v13 identifies automated patch management as the most secure and scalable approach. Automated tools ensure timely deployment, validation, rollback capability, and compliance reporting.

Manual patching increases human error. Applying patches from unknown sources introduces malware risk.

Limiting patches contradicts best practices.

Therefore, Option B is correct.

NEW QUESTION # 21

A known vulnerability exists on a production server, but patching is delayed due to operational constraints.

What immediate action can reduce risk without disrupting operations?

- A. Implement Virtual Patching
- B. Monitor traffic continuously

- C. Conduct a full penetration test
- D. Shut down the server

Answer: A

Explanation:

Virtual Patching is a risk-mitigation technique emphasized in CEH v13 Security Operations. It involves deploying compensating controls—such as WAF rules, IPS signatures, or firewall policies—to block exploitation attempts without modifying the vulnerable system.

CEH v13 highlights virtual patching as especially useful when:

- * Downtime is unacceptable
- * Vendor patches are delayed
- * Legacy systems are in use

Monitoring alone does not prevent exploitation, and shutting down systems is often impractical. Virtual patching provides immediate protection while maintaining availability.

NEW QUESTION # 22

Which of the following is a command line packet analyzer similar to GUI-based Wireshark?

- A. jack the ripper
- B. tcpdump
- C. nessus
- D. ethereal

Answer: B

Explanation:

Tcpdump is a data-network packet analyzer computer program that runs under a command-line interface. It allows the user to display TCP/IP and other packets being transmitted or received over a network to which the computer is attached. Distributed under the BSD license, tcpdump is free software.

<https://www.wireshark.org/>

Wireshark is a free and open-source packet analyzer. It is used for network troubleshooting, analysis, software and communications protocol development, and education.

NOTE: Wireshark is very similar to tcpdump, but has a graphical front-end, plus some integrated sorting and filtering options.

NEW QUESTION # 23

You are a cybersecurity consultant for a healthcare organization that utilizes Internet of Medical Things (IoMT) devices, such as connected insulin pumps and heart rate monitors, to provide improved patient care.

Recently, the organization has been targeted by ransomware attacks. While the IT infrastructure was unaffected due to robust security measures, they are worried that the IoMT devices could be potential entry points for future attacks. What would be your main recommendation to protect these devices from such threats?

- A. Use network segmentation to isolate IoMT devices from the main network.
- B. Regularly change the IP addresses of all IoMT devices.
- C. Implement multi-factor authentication for all IoMT devices.
- D. Disable all wireless connectivity on IoMT devices.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Internet of Medical Things (IoMT) devices are internet-connected medical devices that can collect, transfer, and analyze data over a network. They can provide improved patient care and comfort, but they also pose security challenges and risks, as they can be targeted by cyberattacks, such as ransomware, that can compromise their functionality, integrity, or confidentiality. Ransomware is a type of malware that encrypts the victim's data or system and demands a ransom for its decryption or restoration. Ransomware attacks can cause serious harm to healthcare organizations, as they can disrupt their operations, endanger their patients, and damage their reputation.

To protect IoMT devices from ransomware attacks, the main recommendation is to use network segmentation to isolate IoMT devices from the main network. Network segmentation is a technique that divides a network into smaller subnetworks, each with its own security policies and controls. Network segmentation can prevent or limit the spread of ransomware from one subnetwork to another, as it restricts the communication and access between them. Network segmentation can also improve the performance, visibility, and manageability of the network, as it reduces the network congestion, complexity, and noise. The other options are not as effective or feasible as network segmentation. Implementing multi-factor authentication for all IoMT devices may not be possible or practical, as some IoMT devices may not support or require user authentication, such as sensors or monitors. Disabling all wireless connectivity on IoMT devices may not be desirable or realistic, as some IoMT devices rely on wireless communication protocols, such as Wi-Fi, Bluetooth, or Zigbee, to function or transmit data. Regularly changing the IP addresses of all IoMT devices may not prevent or deter ransomware attacks, as ransomware can target devices based on other factors, such as their domain names, MAC addresses, or vulnerabilities. NEW QUESTION # 24

A cybersecurity research team identifies suspicious behavior on a user's Android device. Upon investigation, they discover that a seemingly harmless app, downloaded from a third-party app store, has silently overwritten several legitimate applications such as WhatsApp and SHAREit. These fake replicas maintain the original icon and user interface but serve intrusive advertisements and covertly harvest credentials and personal data in the background. The attackers achieved this by embedding malicious code in utility apps like video editors and photo filters, which users were tricked into installing. The replacement occurred without user consent, and the malicious code communicates with a command-and-control (C&C) server to execute further instructions. What type of attack is being carried out in this scenario?

- A. Simjacker attack
- B. Camfecting attack
- C. Agent Smith attack
- D. Man-in-the-Disk attack

Answer: C

Explanation:

CEH v13 describes Agent Smith-style attacks as malicious Android operations where an app silently replaces legitimate applications by exploiting weaknesses in the Android app update and installation processes. These attacks often begin when users download seemingly innocent apps from untrusted third-party marketplaces. Once installed, the malicious application injects harmful code into other apps, overwriting them while preserving their icons and interface, allowing the attacker to harvest credentials, display ads, or maintain persistence without detection. CEH explains that this technique takes advantage of Android's APK structure, sideloading vulnerabilities, and lack of signature validation in compromised environments.

Simjacker (Option A) targets SIM toolkit vulnerabilities and does not replace apps. Man-in-the-Disk (Option B) abuses external storage operations but does not overwrite applications. Camfecting (Option D) refers to hijacking smartphone cameras. The described malicious replacement of legitimate apps exactly matches the Agent Smith attack pattern.
