What type of relationship should the administrator make between Shipments and Account?

- A. Shipments should have a lookup to Account.
- B. Shipments should have a master-detail to Accounts.
- C. Accounts should have a master-detail to Shipments.
- D. Accounts should have a lookup to Shipments.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

A lookup relationship is a type of relationship that links two objects together, but does not affect security or deletion. It can be used to create a relationship between shipments and accounts where shipments should have a lookup to accounts; this way, shipments can show related account information on their records, but when an account is deleted, the shipments remain. Accounts should have a lookup to shipments is not a valid option because it does not match the requirement of seeing all shipment items from an account page; it would show related account information on shipment records instead. Shipments should have a master-detail to accounts or accounts should have a master-detail to shipments are not valid options either because they do not match the requirement of keeping shipments when an account is deleted; they would delete shipments along with their master account records. To allow sales reps to change the probability field value of their opportunities, you need to make the field editable on page layouts. References:
