CompTIA Project+ Certification Exam PK0-005 Prüfungsfragen mit Lösungen (Q178-Q183):

178. Frage

One of the key steps in controlling changes to software is obtaining approval. Which of the following statements best describes the reason for this key objective?

- A. To confirm that the software is a business priority
- B. To send the appropriate customer notifications
- C. To avoid a negative impact on other software functionalities
- D. To ensure adequate resources are in place to implement the change

Antwort: C

Begründung:

Obtaining approval for changes to software is crucial to ensure that the changes do not negatively impact other functionalities of the software. Approval processes typically involve a review that assesses the potential impacts of the change, which helps in mitigating risks associated with the change.

References = The answer is based on standard project management practices and the typical use of change control processes in software development. For detailed information, please refer to the CompTIA Project+ Study Guide and other official CompTIA resources.

179. Frage

A PM learns about some communication issues with different stakeholders and team members. Which of the following should the PM do NEXT?

- A. Review the communication plan.
- B. Escalate the communication issues.
- C. Implement a communication platform.
- D. Talk with the head of the PMO.

Antwort: A

Begründung:

The project manager should review the communication plan after learning about some communication issues with different stakeholders and team members. A communication plan is a document that defines and documents the communication goals, strategies, methods, channels, frequency, roles, and responsibilities for a project. A communication plan can help to facilitate effective and timely communication among all stakeholders involved in a project and avoid confusion, misunderstanding, or conflicts.

A project is executed to migrate all data to a single system following the merger of two companies. The team validates that system performance will not be impacted. Which of the following did the team perform?

- A. Smoke testing
- B. Regression testing
- C. Automation testing
- D. Stress testing

Antwort: D

Begründung:

Stress testing is a type of performance testing that evaluates how a system behaves under extreme load conditions, such as high volume of data, concurrent users, or transactions¹². Stress testing can help to identify the system's breaking point, bottlenecks, and resource limitations, and to ensure that the system can recover from failures and maintain its functionality³⁴. In this case, the team performed stress testing to validate that system performance will not be impacted by migrating all data to a single system following the merger of two companies. This implies that the team simulated a high amount of data transfer and processing, and measured the system's response time, throughput, availability, and reliability under such load. Stress testing is better than the other options because: Regression testing is a type of functional testing that verifies that a system's existing features and functionality are not affected by a change or an update⁵⁶. Regression testing does not focus on system performance or load conditions, but rather on system correctness and quality.

Smoke testing is a type of functional testing that checks the basic functionality and stability of a system before performing more detailed and comprehensive testing⁷⁸. Smoke testing does not measure system performance or load conditions, but rather ensures that the system is ready for further testing.

Automation testing is a technique of using software tools or scripts to execute test cases and compare the actual results with the expected results⁹¹⁰. Automation testing is not a specific type of testing, but rather a way of performing testing. Automation testing can be applied to various types of testing, including stress testing, regression testing, and smoke testing.

181. Frage

An existing application that is highly utilized by clients is moving to a new release. Which of the following environments contains this application?

- A. Development
- B. Testing
- C. QA
- D. Production

Antwort: D

Begründung:

This is where an existing application that is highly utilized by clients is moving to a new release, as it involves deploying and operating it in a live environment. Reference = CompTIA Project+ Study Guide¹, Chapter 4: Project Environments

182. Frage

While developing a project charter, a PM discovers that some of the legal requirements have not been addressed during the project concept preparation, which could result in significant financial penalties against the organization. The PM knows that implementation of appropriate changes is costly and will exceed the budget and scope of the project. Which of the following should the PM do FIRST?

- A. Have a meeting with the project sponsor and main stakeholders.
- B. Consult the RACI matrix to identify ownership of the risk.
- C. Escalate the finding to the change control board.
- D. Add a risk to the risk register for validation.

Antwort: A

Begründung:

The project manager should have a meeting with the project sponsor and main stakeholders first after discovering that some of the legal requirements have not been addressed during the project concept preparation. The project sponsor and main stakeholders are the key decision-makers and influencers of the project. They have the authority and responsibility to approve or reject any changes to the project scope, budget, or schedule. Having a meeting with them can help to communicate the issue, assess the impact, explore alternatives, and seek guidance on how to proceed with the project³⁴
