Huawei HCSA-Presales-Storage V4.0 Sample Questions (Q134-Q139):

NEW QUESTION # 134

Which of the following technologies is not used by Huawei OceanStor SmartQoS?

- A. I/O flow control
- B. Cache partitioning
- C. I/O priority scheduling
- D. I/O latency control

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 135

Incremental backup requires the previous full backup and incremental backup to fully restore data. Data reconstruction is slower than full backup, and the restoration is long.

- A. FALSE
- B. TRUE

Answer: B

Explanation:

This statement accurately reflects the technical characteristics of traditional incremental backup strategies found in Huawei data protection guides. An Incremental Backup only copies the data that has changed since the last backup (whether that was a full or an incremental backup).

While this saves significant time and storage space during the backup window, it adds complexity during restoration. To fully restore a system to its latest state, the administrator must first restore the last Full Backup and then sequentially apply every subsequent Incremental Backup in the correct order. If any single incremental tape or file in the chain is missing or corrupted, the restoration cannot be completed beyond that point. Because the system must process multiple data sets to reconstruct the final image, the total recovery time (RTO) is indeed longer and the process is slower compared to restoring from a single Full Backup.

NEW QUESTION # 136

SCSI applies to SAN storage with HDDs, and NVMe applies to all-flash SAN storage.

- A. FALSE
- B. TRUE

Answer: B

Explanation:

SCSI is a traditional protocol used for HDD-based SAN storage, while NVMe is optimized for all-flash SAN storage, providing higher performance and lower latency.

NEW QUESTION # 137
