CompTIA SecAI+ Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q47-Q52):

NEW QUESTION # 47

A security analyst is aware of an active penetration test in the environment. The analyst examines security information and event management (SIEM) log data and notices the following output from the AI system:

```
#Log Data
  status: 200, uid: 1000
  name: Jane Doe,
  output: operation complete
  addr: 123 home rd
  card: 9999 9999 9999 9999
  action: add message: profile updated.

Which of the following is the vulnerability that has occurred and the control the analyst should implement?

- A. The vulnerability is role impersonation, and the analyst should use validation.
- B. The vulnerability is prompt injection, and the analyst should use endpoint detection response (EDR).
- C. The vulnerability is sensitive information disclosure, and the analyst should employ masking.
- D. The vulnerability is model hallucinations, and the analyst should develop output validations.
- E. The vulnerability is jailbreaking, and the analyst should utilize role-based access control.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The log data reveals personally identifiable information (PII) such as name, address, and a full credit card number. This represents a sensitive information disclosure vulnerability. The appropriate control is data masking, which protects sensitive data in logs and outputs while still allowing necessary system monitoring.

NEW QUESTION # 48

Which of the following is required first in order to send a prompt query and response in a language model (LLM) system when authentication is enabled?

- A. Application programming interface gateway
- B. Front-end web proxy gateway
- C. Endpoint access control
- D. Back-end access gateway

Answer: C

Explanation:

Basic Concept: When authentication is enabled on an LLM system, users must prove their identity before the system processes any requests. The authentication process must occur at the point where users first attempt to access the system before any data can be transmitted. CompTIA SecAI+ Study Guide covers the order of authentication controls in AI system access architectures.

Why B is Correct: Endpoint access control is the first requirement when authentication is enabled, as it governs the initial connection from the user's device to the system. Before any prompt can be sent or response received, the endpoint must be authenticated and authorized to access the LLM service. Endpoint access control verifies user identity and device compliance at the earliest possible point in the request flow, gating all subsequent processing.

Why A is Wrong: A front-end web proxy gateway routes and manages web traffic between users and backend services. While it may participate in the authentication flow, it is a routing and mediation component that operates after the endpoint has been validated, not the first authentication requirement.

Why C is Wrong: An API gateway manages API traffic, authentication tokens, and rate limiting for API interactions. It processes requests after initial endpoint authentication has been established and the request is being routed to the LLM backend.

Why D is Wrong: A back-end access gateway controls access to backend services and resources. It operates downstream from both endpoint authentication and API gateway processing, representing a deeper layer of the access control architecture rather than the first authentication requirement.

NEW QUESTION # 49

A user interface engineer adds new graphics to the latest release of an AI-integrated application.

During the update, the engineer accidentally causes the model to retain on unverified data. After the update, the model begins to return many errors. Which of the following is the best way to mitigate future errors?

- A. Model development life cycle
- B. Web application firewall
- C. Role-based access control
- D. Generative adversarial network

Answer: A

Explanation:

Following a secure and structured model development life cycle (MDLC) ensures controls such as data validation, verification, and testing are in place. This prevents issues like retraining on unverified data and reduces the likelihood of future model errors.

NEW QUESTION # 50

Which of the following describe the practice of providing examples in a prompt? (Choose two.)

- A. User prompt
- B. System prompt
- C. Prompt template
- D. Quantization
