ISACA Certified Data Privacy Solutions Engineer Sample Questions (Q227-Q232):

NEW QUESTION # 227

Which of the following is the BEST indication of a highly effective privacy training program?

- A. Recent audits have no findings or recommendations related to data privacy
- B. HR has made privacy training an annual mandate for the organization
- C. Members of the workforce understand their roles in protecting data privacy
- D. No privacy incidents have been reported in the last year

Answer: C

Explanation:

CDPSE emphasizes outcomes of training-measurable role-based understanding and behavior-over mere completion or absence of incidents. HR mandates (B) and clean audits (D) show activity or point-in-time results, not sustained effectiveness. No incidents (A) is not a reliable indicator of program quality.

Key CDPSE-aligned phrasing (short extract): "Effective awareness is role-based and demonstrated in behavior."

NEW QUESTION # 228

Which of the following describes a user's "right to be forgotten"?

- A. The individual's legal residence status has recently changed.
- B. The individual objects despite legitimate grounds for processing.
- C. The data is being used to comply with legal obligations or the public interest.
- D. The data is no longer required for the purpose originally collected.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation

The right to be forgotten is a privacy right that allows individuals to request the deletion or removal of their personal data from a data controller's records or systems under certain conditions. One of these conditions is when the data is no longer required for the purpose originally collected, meaning that the data has become obsolete, irrelevant or excessive for fulfilling the initial purpose for which it was obtained or processed by the data controller. The other options are not valid conditions for exercising the right to be forgotten. The data is being used to comply with legal obligations or public interest is an exception that may prevent the data controller from deleting or removing the data upon request, as there may be overriding legitimate grounds for retaining the data for legal compliance or public interest reasons. The individual objects despite legitimate grounds for processing is a condition for exercising the right to object, not the right to be forgotten, which allows individuals to oppose the processing of their personal data based on their particular situation or for direct marketing purposes. The individual's legal residence status has recently changed is not a relevant factor for exercising the right to be forgotten, as it does not affect the necessity or relevance of the data for its original purpose1, p. 107-108 References: 1: CDPSE Review Manual (Digital Version)

NEW QUESTION # 229

Which of the following tracking technologies associated with unsolicited targeted advertisements presents the GREATEST privacy risk?

- A. Online behavioral tracking
- B. Beacon-based tracking
- C. Website cookies
- D. Radio frequency identification (RFID)

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 230

An organization has an initiative to implement database encryption to strengthen privacy controls. Which of the following is the MOST useful information for prioritizing database selection?

- A. Database administration audit logs
- B. Penetration test results
- C. Historical security incidents
- D. Asset classification scheme

Answer: D

Explanation:

The most useful information for prioritizing database selection for encryption is the asset classification scheme. An asset classification scheme is a system of organizing and categorizing assets based on their value, sensitivity, criticality, or risk level. An asset classification scheme helps to determine the appropriate level of protection or handling for each asset. For example, an asset classification scheme may assign labels such as public, internal, confidential, or secret to different types of data based on their impact if compromised. Databases that contain higher-classified data should be prioritized for encryption to prevent unauthorized access, disclosure, or modification.

Database administration audit logs, historical security incidents, or penetration test results are also useful information for database security, but they are not the most useful for prioritizing database selection for encryption. Database administration audit logs are records of activities performed by database administrators or other privileged users on the database system. Database administration audit logs help to monitor and verify the actions and changes made by authorized users and detect any anomalies or violations. Historical security incidents are records of events that have compromised or threatened the security of the database system in the past. Historical security incidents help to identify and analyze the root causes, impacts, and lessons learned from previous breaches or attacks. Penetration test results are reports of simulated attacks performed by ethical hackers or security experts on the database system to evaluate its vulnerabilities and defenses. Penetration test results help to discover and exploit any weaknesses or gaps in the database security posture and recommend remediation actions.

NEW QUESTION # 231

Which of the following is MOST likely to present a valid use case for keeping a customer's personal data after contract termination?

- A. A forthcoming campaign to win back customers
- B. Ease of onboarding when the customer returns
- C. For the purpose of medical research
- D. A required retention period due to regulations

Answer: D
