最新的 ASQ Certification CMQ-OE 免費考試真題 (Q416-Q421):

問題 #416

In order for metrics to be useful in measuring quality projects and initiatives, the metrics must be

- A. able to qualify all aspects of a process
- B. derived from a large population
- C. presented in a way that allows actions to be taken
- D. used to establish acceptability limits for a product

答案：C

解題說明：

Metrics should be designed to drive improvement and decision-making within an organization. While having a large population of data can be beneficial for statistical significance, and qualifying all aspects of a process is important for comprehensive understanding. The key is to present the metrics in a way that highlights areas for action. This could involve identifying trends, pinpointing areas of non-conformance, or tracking progress against goals. Metrics used to establish acceptability limits for a product are also important, but they are more about defining quality rather than measuring the effectiveness of quality initiatives.

References: The principles outlined here are consistent with the best practices in quality management and organizational excellence, as described in resources like the ASQ Certified Manager of Quality/Organizational Excellence Handbook¹. While I cannot directly reference the handbook, the approach to metrics aligns with the general guidance provided for quality management professionals.

問題 #417

Data that is derived from counting is derived from measuring is data.

- A. Attribute, variable
- B. Quantitative, qualitative
- C. Numeric, verbal
- D. Variable, attribute

答案: A

問題 #418

Which of the following characteristics is expected in a leader but not a manager?

- A. Making plans for the future
- B. Organizing materials and methods
- C. Developing quality goals
- D. Envisioning the organization's future

答案: D

解題說明:

Leaders play a critical role in shaping an organization's vision and strategic direction. They inspire and motivate others by articulating a compelling vision of the future. In contrast, managers are primarily concerned with executing plans, organizing resources, and achieving specific objectives. While both leaders and managers contribute to organizational success, the ability to envision and communicate a future state is a distinct leadership trait¹.

問題 #419

Theory of constraints:

- A. Follows the processes in the system
- B. Follows after process reengineering
- C. Follows the flow of money.
- D. Follows the steps in the process.

答案: C

問題 #420

Which of the following is an example of one-on instruction?

- A. Self-directed
- B. Facilitation
- C. on-the-job
- D. Classroom

答案: C

解題說明：

The first action the quality manager should take when upgrading an inspection process that has not been changed in several years is to conduct a process analysis using resources from within the company. This involves thoroughly examining the existing process, identifying areas for improvement, and gathering data to understand the current state. By involving internal resources, the organization can leverage its own expertise and knowledge to assess the process, identify bottlenecks, and determine where enhancements are needed.

This approach ensures that the analysis is tailored to the specific context of the company and allows for a more effective and efficient upgrade. Once the process analysis is complete, the quality manager can then explore other improvement options, such as benchmarking or automation, if necessary1.
