NEW QUESTION # 55

What action does an access port take in the process of sending VLAN frames?

- A. The access port strips the VLAN tag and forwards the frame.
- B. The access port sends tagged frames.
- C. The access port exchanges the VLAN tag of the inbound and outbound port of the frame before forwarding the frame.
- D. The access port attaches its PVID information to the frame.

Answer: A

Explanation:

An access port is a switch port assigned to a single VLAN and used to connect end devices (such as PCs or printers).

* Access ports do not send VLAN tags. They remove the VLAN tag before forwarding frames to the connected device because most end devices do not support VLAN tagging.

* Option A (Incorrect): Tagged frames are sent only by trunk ports, not access ports.

* Option B (Correct): The access port strips the VLAN tag before forwarding the frame to ensure compatibility with non-VLAN-aware devices.

* Option C (Incorrect): VLAN tags are not exchanged between inbound and outbound ports.

* Option D (Incorrect): The access port does not attach PVID information to the frame when sending it out.

Thus, the correct answer is B.
