CompTIA Security+ Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q533-Q538):

NEW QUESTION # 533

Which of the following would be the best ways to ensure only authorized personnel can access a secure facility? (Select two).

- A. Sign-in sheet
- B. Access control vestibule
- C. Badge access

- D. Fencing
- E. Video surveillance
- F. Sensor

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

Badge access and access control vestibule are two of the best ways to ensure only authorized personnel can access a secure facility. Badge access requires the personnel to present a valid and authenticated badge to a reader or scanner that grants or denies access based on predefined rules and permissions. Access control vestibule is a physical security measure that consists of a small room or chamber with two doors, one leading to the outside and one leading to the secure area. The personnel must enter the vestibule and wait for the first door to close and lock before the second door can be opened. This prevents tailgating or piggybacking by unauthorized individuals. NEW QUESTION # 534

Which of the following best describe why a process would require a two-person integrity security control?

- A. To allow one person to perform the activity while being recorded on the CCTV camera
- B. To reduce the risk that the procedures are performed incorrectly or by an unauthorized user
- C. To permit two users from another department to observe the activity that is being performed by an authorized user
- D. To Increase the chance that the activity will be completed in half of the time the process would take only one user to complete

Answer: B

Explanation:

A two-person integrity security control is implemented to minimize the risk of errors or unauthorized actions. This control ensures that at least two individuals are involved in critical operations, which helps to verify the accuracy of the process and prevents unauthorized users from acting alone. It's a security measure commonly used in sensitive operations, like financial transactions or access to critical systems, to ensure accountability and accuracy.

An IT security team is concerned about the confidentiality of documents left unattended in MFPs. Which of the following should the security team do to mitigate the situation?

- A. Deploy an authentication factor that requires In-person action before printing.
- B. Install a software client in every computer authorized to use the MFPs.
- C. Update the management software to utilize encryption.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 536

Which of the following is the act of proving to a customer that software developers are trained on secure coding?

- A. Due diligence
- B. Assurance
- C. Contract
- D. Attestation

Answer: D

Explanation:

Attestation refers to providing formal evidence or proof that a particular process or activity has been completed according to standards or requirements. In this context, attestation involves demonstrating to customers or stakeholders that software developers have received appropriate training on secure coding practices.

Assurance generally refers to confidence or guarantees about the security posture but does not specifically mean proving or certifying training. Due diligence is the effort made to ensure compliance or safety, but it is not the act of proving training has occurred. A contract is a legal agreement, which may include requirements for training but is not the act of proving training itself.

The importance of attestation in compliance and governance processes is discussed in the Security Program Management and Oversight domain in SY0-701 materials#7:Chapter 5 CompTIA Security+ Practice Tests#.

NEW QUESTION # 537

Which of the following are cases in which an engineer should recommend the decommissioning of a network device? (Select two).

- A. The device is unable to receive authorized updates.
- B. The device is configured to use cleartext passwords.
- C. The device's encryption level cannot meet organizational standards.
- D. The device is moved to a different location in the enterprise.
- E. The device has been moved from a production environment to a test environment.
- F. The device is moved to an isolated segment on the enterprise network.

Answer: C

Explanation:

An engineer should recommend the decommissioning of a network device when the device poses a security risk or a compliance violation to the enterprise environment. A device that cannot meet the encryption standards or receive authorized updates is vulnerable to attacks and breaches, and may expose sensitive data or compromise network integrity. Therefore, such a device should be removed from the network and replaced with a more secure and updated one.
