問題 #141

Who is known for Management by Objective (MBO)?

- A. Drucker
- B. Burgess
- C. Bettman
- D. Calthrope

答案: A

問題 #142

The following table provides data on commuting patterns:

* Median Distance (miles): Owners: United States 8.2, Cities 6.7, Suburbs 10.7, Central MSAs 6.0; Renters: United States 5.1, Cities 4.7, Suburbs 7.5, Central MSAs 4.0

* Median Travel Time (minutes): Owners: United States 21, Cities 21, Suburbs 23, Central MSAs 16; Renters: United States 19, Cities 21, Suburbs 21, Central MSAs 15 Which of the following statements is supported by the information given in the table above?

- A. Commuters tend to experience slower travel speeds in cities than in suburbs or nonmetropolitan areas.
- B. Renters tend to live closer to their places of work than do owners.
- C. Owners generally have a wider choice of residential locations than do renters.
- D. Renters are more dependent on public transportation than owners are.

答案: B

解題說明:

The table shows median commuting distances and times for owners and renters across different regions. For median distance: owners have longer commutes (e.g., 8.2 miles in the U.S.) compared to renters (5.1 miles in the U.S.) in all regions. This supports option D, "Renters tend to live closer to their places of work than do owners," as shorter distances indicate closer proximity to workplaces. Option A (wider choice for owners) is not directly supported by distance or time data—it's an inference not grounded in the table. Option B (slower speeds in cities) requires calculating speed (distance/time), but the data shows mixed results (e.g., cities: 6.7 miles/21 min # 19.1 mph for owners; suburbs: 10.7 miles/23 min # 27.9 mph), and the statement doesn't hold consistently. Option C (renters' public transit dependence) cannot be assessed from distance/time data alone.

The APA's AICP Certification Exam Content Outline(2022), under "Research and Assessment Methods," emphasizes interpreting data tables, and the CPC Study Manual(2024) notes, "Shorter commute distances often indicate closer proximity to work," supporting option D.

問題 #144

In organizing data, a planner should consider which of the following?

- I. Format and type of data
- II. Source of data
- III. User needs
- IV. Reliability of data

- A. I, II, and III only
- B. I and III only
- C. I, II, III, and IV
- D. II and IV only

答案： C

解題說明：

Organizing data effectively requires considering all relevant factors to ensure it is usable and reliable for planning purposes. All four factors-I (format and type), II (source), III (user needs), and IV (reliability)-are critical: format/type ensures data is structured appropriately; source verifies its origin; user needs ensure it meets the audience's requirements; and reliability ensures accuracy. The APA's AICP Certification Exam Content Outline (2022), under "Research and Assessment Methods," states, "Planners must consider the format, source, user needs, and reliability of data when organizing it for analysis." Omitting any factor (as in options A, B, and C) risks incomplete or inaccurate data use. The CPC Study Manual (2024) confirms, "Data organization involves assessing its format, source, reliability, and alignment with user needs to ensure effective planning," supporting option D.

問題 #145

A new planner is assigned to prepare a briefing memo for the administrator. The best approach for the supervising planner to assist the new planner in meeting the deadline with a quality product would be to:

- A. Provide a deadline and a couple of samples and templates.
- B. Check the task progress daily asking how the task is being performed, and how much work has been completed.
- C. Take the task back if the new planner is not likely to meet the deadline with a quality product.
- D. Have an early meeting to go over the expectations and provide constructive feedback on the draft.

答案： D

解題說明：

Effective leadership in planning involves mentoring and supporting staff to ensure quality work. Option B (early meeting to go over expectations and provide feedback on the draft) sets clear goals, provides guidance, and allows for iterative improvement, which is the best approach for a new planner. The APA's AICP Certification Exam Content Outline (2022), under "Leadership," emphasizes "mentoring staff through clear expectations, early guidance, and constructive feedback to ensure quality outcomes." Option A (providing samples and a deadline) lacks active support. Option C (daily checks) is micromanaging and may undermine confidence. Option D (taking the task back) does not foster growth. The CPC Study Manual (2024) states, "Leaders should support new planners by setting expectations early and providing feedback on drafts to ensure quality work," supporting option B.
