NEW QUESTION # 19

What kind of rider may be added to an individual disability income insurance policy to increase benefits during periods of price inflation?

- A. Cost of living
- B. Price escalation
- C. Inflation guard
- D. Wage protection

Answer: A

Explanation:

Detailed Answer in Step-by-Step Solution:

* A cost of living (COLA) rider (B) adjusts disability income benefits to account for inflation, maintaining purchasing power.
* Inflation guard (A) is more common in property insurance. Price escalation (C) and wage protection (D) are not standard disability riders.

The Virginia study guide describes the COLA rider as an optional feature in disability income policies, increasing benefits based on inflation indices like the CPI. Reference: Virginia Life, Annuities, and Health Insurance study guide, section on "Disability Insurance Riders."

NEW QUESTION # 20

(Benefit payments under a joint and survivor annuity normally continue until the death of)

- A. Both annuitants
- B. All beneficiaries
- C. One annuitant
- D. One beneficiary

Answer: A

Explanation:

A joint and survivor annuity is designed to provide income for two people, typically spouses, and payments continue until both annuitants have died. This feature makes it especially suitable for retirement planning when ongoing income is needed for a surviving spouse.

When the first annuitant dies, payments continue to the survivor, often at the same or a reduced level depending on the contract terms. Only after the second annuitant's death do payments cease. Therefore, option A is correct. Options B, C, and D incorrectly describe other annuity structures. Beneficiaries are generally relevant only if a refund or period-certain option applies. Joint and survivor annuities are a core topic in Virginia annuity education because of their longevity risk protection.

NEW QUESTION # 21

Which life insurance policy may pay the face amount to the policyowner if the insured survives to policy maturity?

- A. Convertible term life
- B. Credit life
- C. Level term life
- D. Ordinary whole life

Answer: D

Explanation:

Ordinary whole life pays the face amount at maturity (traditionally age 100 or 120) if the insured is still alive, or upon earlier death. Term policies have no maturity value.

- A. Has a back injury requiring two years of rehabilitation
- B. Is about to have minor surgery
- C. Elects to receive supplemental retirement income
- D. Is expected to die within six months

Answer: D

Explanation:

An accelerated benefit rider allows the policyholder to access a portion of the death benefit while they are still alive, typically in cases where the insured is diagnosed with a terminal illness and is expected to die within a certain period (usually six months). This rider provides financial assistance during the policyholder's final stages of life, allowing them to cover medical expenses or other costs. It does not apply for minor surgeries or long-term rehabilitation.

- B. The face amount is paid when the insured survives to policy maturity
- C. Loan and nonforfeiture values are available to the policyowner
- D. Premiums are payable for as long as the policy remains in force
