Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation:

GIT PUSH

To start a CI/CD pipeline and run automated tests after modifying the code in a cloned repository, the appropriate command is git push. When a developer pushes the changes to the remote repository, it triggers the CI/CD pipeline configured in the repository.

Here are the steps:

- * Clone the repository from GitLab.
- * Make the necessary code modifications.
- * Use git commit to commit the changes locally.
- * Use git push to push the committed changes to the remote repository.

Pushing the changes to the remote repository initiates the CI/CD pipeline, which typically includes steps like building the application, running tests, and deploying the application if tests pass.
