NEW QUESTION # 19

Which of the following is usually the direct responsibility of the planning director, rather than the city manager?

- A. Floodplain management
- B. Property tax rates
- C. Job growth/decline
- D. Strategic goal setting

Answer: A

Explanation:

A planning director's role typically includes responsibilities directly related to land use, development, and environmental planning, such as floodplain management, which involves zoning, permitting, and ensuring development complies with flood regulations. The APA's AICP Certification Exam Content Outline(2022), under "Administration and Management," lists "floodplain management" as a core responsibility of planning directors, as it falls within their purview of regulating land use and development. In contrast, a city manager oversees broader municipal operations, including economic development (A: job growth/decline), financial management (C: property tax rates), and overall strategic planning (D: strategic goal setting). The CPC Study Manual(2024) notes that "planning directors are responsible for managing land use policies, including floodplain management," while city managers handle fiscal and administrative duties like tax rates and economic strategies. Thus, option B is the correct answer.

NEW QUESTION # 20

Which of the following statements is true about systems analysis?

- A. It is useful when problems can be bounded and relationships between actions and results can be modeled.
- B. It uses decision trees to trace consequences of alternatives, thereby aiding in making the best choice among alternatives.
- C. It is concerned with organizational and administrative limitations to the implementation of solutions.
- D. It is used when political and social factors predominate.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Systems analysis is a method to evaluate complex problems by modeling relationships between actions and outcomes, often using quantitative tools. Option B (useful when problems can be bounded and relationships modeled) accurately describes this approach, as systems analysis requires defining a system's boundaries and modeling inputs and outputs. The APA's AICP Certification Exam Content Outline(2022), under "Research and Assessment Methods," defines systems analysis as "a method for evaluating problems that can be bounded, where relationships between actions and results can be modeled." Option A (political and social factors) is incorrect, as systems analysis focuses on technical modeling, not social dynamics. Option C (decision trees) describes a specific tool, not the broader method. Option D (organizational limitations) is a secondary concern, not the primary focus. The CPC Study Manual(2024) states, "Systems analysis is effective for bounded problems where relationships can be modeled mathematically," supporting option B.

NEW QUESTION # 21

Scenario

You are a newly hired planner involved in the process of preparing a new recreation plan for your community.

Your supervisor learns that the City Council is anxious to take action on a recreation plan, and therefore, you are instructed to prepare the plan without scheduling any time for public participation or public comment.

Suppose you learn that there is no regulation in place regarding public participation. What might you do?

Answer:

Explanation:

See the solution below

Explanation

You might mention lack of public participation in the process in your report or introduction to the plan. Suppose you learn that there was a lengthy and involved process of public participation in developing an open space plan less than a year ago and that information gathered in that process will be used to create the recreation plan. You might mention the lack of public participation in the process in your report but might also include information about the process that occurred less than a year ago and explain how that process did (or did not) influence this decision.
