ASIS Physical Security Professional Exam Sample Questions (Q189-Q194):

NEW QUESTION # 189

When installing a passive infrared detector (PIR), the physical security professional must mount the detector so that the intruder is MOST likely to:

- A. Move towards the sensor
- B. Move across the line of sight of the sensor

- C. Move away from the sensor
- D. Attempt to defeat the detector

Answer: B

Explanation:

PIR (Passive Infrared) detectors are most effective when motion occurs across the sensor's field of view. This maximizes the differential detection of body heat moving against the ambient background.

B and C (Movement toward/away) produce weaker thermal contrasts.

A (Defeat attempts) is a risk but not a mounting consideration.

NEW QUESTION # 190

In which approach of comparative negligence, the plaintiff may collect something for injuries even if he or she was primarily responsible for the injuries?

- A. 50/50 rule
- B. None of the above
- C. 51 percent rule
- D. Pure approach

Answer: D

Explanation:

Under the pure comparative negligence approach, a plaintiff can recover damages even if they were primarily responsible for their own injury. For example, if the plaintiff was 90% at fault, they could still recover 10% of the damages from the defendant. This model allows for partial recovery based on proportional fault, regardless of the level of the plaintiff's responsibility.

50/50 rule and 51 percent rule prevent recovery when the plaintiff is found equally or more at fault.

NEW QUESTION # 191

Major outputs of the security system planning phase include definition of stakeholders, which of the following?

- A. Asset lists, organization charts, and facility-specific threats
- B. Vulnerability studies, adversary sequence diagrams, and defense in depth
- C. Protective force efficiency, assessment or surveillance, and facility-specific threats
- D. Requirements documents, meeting schedules, and cost estimates

Answer: D

Explanation:

The planning phase of a security system project results in key deliverables such as stakeholder identification, project requirements, timelines (meeting schedules), and budget forecasts (cost estimates). These form the foundation for design and implementation.

B, C, and D include inputs or analysis components, but they are not final outputs of the planning phase.

NEW QUESTION # 192

What generally means removing the risk to the company by paying for the protection of an insurance policy?

- A. Self-assurance
- B. Security
- C. Risk transfer

- D. Collateral

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 193

What applies to a provider of defective or hazardous products or services that unduly threaten a consumer's personal safety?

- A. Strict liability
- B. None of the above
- C. Defendant
- D. Plaintiff

Answer: A

Explanation:

Strict liability applies when a manufacturer or service provider is held legally responsible for damages or injuries caused by a defective product or service, regardless of fault or intent. This type of liability is often associated with consumer protection laws, where the focus is on the danger posed to the user rather than negligence on the part of the provider.

Plaintiff (B) is the party bringing the suit.

Defendant (C) is the party being sued.

"None of the above" (D) is incorrect since "Strict liability" is the correct legal principle.
