- A. Plaintiff

- B. Defendant
- C. Strict liability
- D. None of the above

Answer: C

Explanation:
Strict liability applies when a manufacturer or service provider is held legally responsible for damages or injuries caused by a defective product or service, regardless of fault or intent. This type of liability is often associated with consumer protection laws, where the focus is on the danger posed to the user rather than negligence on the part of the provider.
Plaintiff (B) is the party bringing the suit.
Defendant (C) is the party being sued.
"None of the above" (D) is incorrect since "Strict liability" is the correct legal principle.

A hazard is a condition or factor that increases the likelihood or severity of a peril (a cause of loss).

C (difference between actual and expected losses) refers to variance, not hazard.

NEW QUESTION # 240

A person who already knows and understands the basics of loss prevention and security is known as:

- A. Engaged liaison
- B. None of the above
- C. Review personnel
- D. Supportive person

Answer: B

The description in the question refers to a "qualified" or "trained" individual in security or loss prevention, but none of the answer choices-Engaged liaison, Review personnel, Supportive person-specifically identify a person already knowledgeable in loss prevention and security. Therefore, "None of the above" is the correct choice as it best fits the context.
