AVIXA Certified Technology Specialist Sample Questions (Q69-Q74):

NEW QUESTION # 69

During a site survey, a sound pressure level (SPL) meter can be used for measuring

- A. the room acoustics.
- B. distance to existing loudspeakers.
- C. the ambient noise level.
- D. the efficiency of the amplification.

Answer: C

Explanation:

An SPL (Sound Pressure Level) meter is commonly used during a site survey to measure the ambient noise level in a room. This measurement provides a baseline for audio system design, ensuring that the sound reinforcement system can deliver adequate volume levels above the background noise.

CTS Technology Specialist Reference According to CTS materials, assessing ambient noise levels with an SPL meter is a standard step in designing sound systems, especially in environments where speech intelligibility is critical.

NEW QUESTION # 70

When the customer says: "The PA is only for speech reinforcement!", which of the following pieces of equipment is most likely NOT needed?

- A. delay speakers
- B. front fills
- C. subwoofers
- D. monitor wedges

Answer: C

Explanation:

Subwoofers are generally not required for a PA system focused solely on speech reinforcement because they reproduce low-frequency sounds that are not necessary for intelligibility of spoken word. Speech reinforcement systems typically prioritize clarity in the mid and high frequencies.

CTS Technology Specialist Reference The CTS curriculum states that speech reinforcement systems should prioritize mid and high frequencies, which are critical for voice clarity, while subwoofers are typically used in music reinforcement for low-frequency response.

NEW QUESTION # 71

During project delivery and after completion, it is important to ensure correct management of control system code so that

- A. programming costs will be within project budget.
- B. sub-contract programmers submit uncompiled code as per their contract of employment.
- C. other contractors are unable to reuse or edit code.
- D. the most up-to-date version of code is available for upload when required.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Proper management of control system code during and after project delivery is crucial to ensure that the most current version of the code is always available. This allows for quick and accurate updates, troubleshooting, and maintenance when needed. Ensuring that the latest version of the code is well-documented and accessible helps maintain the integrity of the system and supports efficient operations and future modifications. This practice reduces the risk of running outdated or incorrect code, which can lead to system malfunctions and increased costs.

NEW QUESTION # 72

A customer wants to set up a new digital classroom and has approached the integrator for a quote. What is the BEST way to understand the customer's needs before creating the quote?

- A. have a manufacturer representative visit the customer
- B. inform the customer of new technologies
- C. invite the customer to similar installs
- D. invite the customer to the office for a meeting

Answer: C

Explanation:

Inviting a customer to visit similar installations is an effective method to help them visualize potential solutions and understand how these systems might work in their environment. This approach provides real-world examples of AV technology in action, allowing customers to see the capabilities, configurations, and performance of systems similar to what they are considering. It also offers the customer a chance to ask questions and make informed decisions based on firsthand experience.

CTS Technology Specialist Reference The CTS curriculum emphasizes the importance of understanding customer needs through various methods, including site visits and demonstrations. This approach aligns with the best practices for gathering detailed client requirements and providing tailored solutions.

NEW QUESTION # 73

A client setting terms for "tire protection of existing conditions" would most likely apply to which of the following project types?

- A. Expansion of an existing building
- B. A technology refresh
- C. A prefabricated building
- D. New construction

Answer: A

Explanation:

A client setting terms for "tire protection of existing conditions" would most likely apply to an expansion of an existing building. This is because protecting existing conditions is crucial when construction activities are taking place adjacent to or within parts of a structure that will remain in use. Ensuring that existing elements of the building are not damaged during expansion work is a key concern.

Reference: Construction and project management documents often specify requirements for protecting existing conditions during building expansions, as outlined in construction contracts and project specifications.
