What is the event that triggers the production of invoices?

- A. The email system.
- B. The batch invoice production job.
- C. Midnight on the system clock.
- D. The receipt of an order from a customer.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 39

As part of an investigation, a business analyst has asked a business user to keep track of the actual tasks they carry out over a period of time.

What is this investigation technique called?

- A. Special purpose records.
- B. Prototyping.
- C. Activity sampling.
- D. Shadowing.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 40

What is the purpose of the business readiness assessment?

- A. Ensuring that all of the requirements have been fully traced throughout the lifecycle.
- B. Evaluating market conditions to ensure they have not changed whilst the product was in development.
- C. Analysing if the business area is sufficiently prepared to accept the business change.
- D. Checking that the user acceptance testing has been completed and there are no outstanding defects.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Business Readiness Assessment is a key activity conducted during the Implementation or Business Change Deployment stage of the project. Its primary purpose is to determine whether the target business areas, including the People, Organisation, and Processes, are sufficiently prepared to accept the business change and begin operating the new solution in the 'To Be' state. This involves checking factors such as whether staff have been trained, new processes are documented, communication has been effective, and necessary resources are in place. This assessment informs the 'Go/No Go' decision for the system's launch, ensuring a smooth transition to the new way of working.

NEW QUESTION # 41

Which of the following BEST describes the purpose of a change strategy?

- A. Achieving the transition between current state and future state.
- B. Mapping the alternative options.
- C. Ensuring the simplest way for transition.
- D. Ensuring the quickest way for transition.

Answer: A

Explanation:

A change strategy outlines how an organization will move from its current state to its desired future state. Its purpose is to ensure a structured and effective transition.

Key Considerations:

Ensuring the simplest way for transition: While simplicity is desirable, it is not the primary purpose of a change strategy.

Ensuring the quickest way for transition: Speed is not the main focus; effectiveness and alignment with goals are more important.

Achieving the transition between current state and future state: This accurately describes the purpose of a change strategy, which is to bridge the gap between where the organization is now and where it wants to be.

Mapping the alternative options: While mapping options may be part of the planning process, it is not the ultimate purpose of the change strategy.

Evaluation of Each Option:

A . Ensuring the simplest way for transition:

Simplicity is a consideration but not the primary purpose of a change strategy.

Conclusion: This is not correct .

B . Ensuring the quickest way for transition:

Speed is secondary to achieving an effective and sustainable transition.

Conclusion: This is not correct .

C . Achieving the transition between current state and future state:

This is the core purpose of a change strategy, ensuring the organization moves effectively toward its goals.

Conclusion: This is correct .

D . Mapping the alternative options:

Mapping options is part of the analysis phase, not the overarching purpose of the strategy.

Conclusion: This is not correct .

Final Recommendation:

The best description of the purpose of a change strategy is:

C . Achieving the transition between current state and future state.
