NEW QUESTION # 47

When deploying a policy server, which is important?

- A. To have policies in place
- B. To install the heartbeat server first
- C. To configure the heartbeat interval and define the amount of time that the client is allowed to connect to the server
- D. To configure the EPS and define the amount of time that the client is allowed to connect to the SMS

Answer: C

Explanation:

When deploying an Endpoint Policy Server, configuring the heartbeat interval is critical. The heartbeat interval defines how often the client must communicate with the server to verify policy status and updates.

The amount of time allowed for the client to connect ensures consistent enforcement of policies.
