CISI Investment Funds in Canada (IFC) Exam Sample Questions (Q220-Q225):

NEW QUESTION # 220

Greg, one of your clients, has been advised by a friend to invest in open-end mutual funds. He is not sure about the differences between open and closed-end funds.

What would you tell Greg about open-end funds?

- A. The number of units is not fixed, and varies with investor demand and redemption orders.

- B. Investors holding open-end funds can buy and sell their mutual funds anytime the stock market is open.
- C. Initial shares in the mutual fund are allotted through an initial public offering (IPO)
- D. Units are bought and sold amongst the unitholders.

Answer: A

Explanation:

According to the Closed-End Funds vs. Open-End Funds: What's the Difference? - Investopedia, open-end funds are mutual funds that can issue an unlimited number of shares to investors. The number of units is not fixed, and varies with investor demand and redemption orders. Investors buy and sell open-end funds directly from the fund company at the net asset value (NAV) of the fund, which is calculated at the end of each trading day. Open-end funds are not traded on an exchange or in the secondary market.

NEW QUESTION # 221

Which type of mutual fund is best suited to a client who is averse to volatility?

- A. Bond
- B. Preferred dividend
- C. Mortgage
- D. Money market

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 222

Xerxes, 45 years old, is a successful architect, having an annual income of $185,000. He has around $10,000 in his non-registered account, which he is looking to invest in a tax-efficient manner.

From the following options, which would be the most tax-efficient?

- A. bond fund
- B. Canadian equity index fund
- C. target date fund
- D. asset allocation fund

Answer: B

Explanation:

A Canadian equity index fund is a type of mutual fund that invests in a basket of Canadian stocks that track the performance of a market index, such as the S&P/TSX Composite Index. A Canadian equity index fund can be a tax-efficient option for a non-registered account, because it can generate capital gains and eligible dividends, which are taxed at lower rates than interest income or foreign dividends. A bond fund, on the other hand, would produce mostly interest income, which is fully taxed at the marginal rate. An asset allocation fund or a target date fund would have a mix of different asset classes, such as bonds, stocks, and cash, and may not be as tax-efficient as a pure equity fund¹²³ References = web search results from search_web(query="tax-efficient investment options in Canada")¹²³ and Canadian Investment Funds Course (CIFIC) - Module 2: Investment Products - Section 2.2: Mutual Funds⁴

NEW QUESTION # 223

An unlicensed person was hired at a securities administrator, and they accepted their first case, which may result in suspending a registrant's license. The new hire immediately requests a subpoena of witnesses (and evidence) and requests guidance from the FATF. What error did the new hire likely commit?

- A. Requesting legally binding documentation
- B. Investigating a licensing violation case
- C. Proceeding on a case without proper registration
- D. Engaging an unrelated inter-governmental department

Answer: C

Explanation:

In Canada, anyone involved in securities enforcement or adjudication must be properly licensed or registered. The unlicensed new hire erred by taking on a case (licensing violation) without being formally registered, violating regulatory requirements. Requesting subpoenas (A) and FATF involvement (C) may show poor judgment, but the fundamental error is acting without registration.

NEW QUESTION # 224

Jack and Jill hold a mutual fund account as tenants in common. What conditions would apply to their account? Should either die, full ownership of the account would pass to the other Each would be the owner of 50% of the account's assets Either could issue trading instructions on all account assets Each would be required to provide KYC information

- A. 1 and 4
- B. 2 and 4
- C. 1 and 3
- D. 2 and 3

Answer: B

Explanation:

In a tenants in common account, each owner holds a pro-rata share (e.g., 50%) and can only issue instructions for their portion, with no right of survivorship. KYC information is required for both owners. The feedback from the document states:

"If more than one person owns an account and it is not specifically identified as being a joint account, each owner owns a pro-rata share of the account, unless ownership is divided in another manner and noted on the account. Where an account is held as tenants in common, there is no right of survivorship and each owner, unless otherwise specified, can only give instructions with regard to the pro-rata portion of the account."
